Biography/History: George Stuart Benson was born on September 25, 1898, on the family farm in Dewey County, Oklahoma Territory. His family became members of the church of Christ, and at age 20 he began preaching. In 1921-1923, Benson attended Harper College, a junior college associated with the churches of Christ in Harper, Kansas, where he came to believe that the churches of Christ needed more missionaries in foreign lands and that the Lord was calling him to do mission work in China. He eventually enrolled in another church of Christ school, Harding College in Morrilton, Arkansas, in 1924. Benson graduated from Harding in 1925 with a B.A. in Social Science. He also married his sweetheart Sallie Ellis Hockaday in 1925, and the pair went on a honeymoon tour of the American West before sailing to China to serve as missionaries. While ministering in Asia, Benson came in direct contact with daily life under a Communist regime which influenced his beliefs and actions for the rest of his life.

In 1936, Benson returned to Harding College, now located in Searcy, Arkansas, to assume the presidency at President J.N. Armstrong's behest. During his first decade as Harding's president, Benson started the National Education Program to help combat what he perceived as the growing Communist threat in America and to promote a stronger free-enterprise society through education programs, news columns, radio shows, and short educational cartoons and films. In 1941, Benson testified before the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee and Senate Finance Committee about the need for economy at the federal level, the elimination of non-essential governmental expenses, and the fear of the American people of high taxes and inflation destroying capitalism and democracy. He was awarded several awards by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge and other organizations for his anti-communism/pro-Americanism work. In 1983, Benson moved the NEP to the campus of Oklahoma Christian College (now University) in Oklahoma City.

Benson served 29 years as Harding's president before stepping down in 1965. During his tenure, he raised $68,000 to pay off the school mortgage in 1939; oversaw the addition of over 20 buildings to campus; added a campus in Memphis for graduate work in Bible; and started Camp Tahkodah, a Christian youth camp 32 miles north of Searcy. He remained active in Harding's affairs as a member of the Board of Trustees until his death.

Benson's belief in Christian education led him to serve as chancellor for Oklahoma Christian College and for Alabama Christian College (now Faulkner University). After he retired, Benson renewed his interest in Christian mission work, particularly in Zambia. In December 1981, Benson's wife of 56 years, Sallie, passed away. He remarried in February 1983 to his longtime secretary, Marguerite O'Banion. Benson died on December 15, 1991, in Searcy, Arkansas.
