1. Quote 89:
   - Love on wheels #14

2. Quote 90:
   - We've new ideas #1

3. Quote #14: Hedonism

4. Quote #6.
Lewis Mumford's charge that "a third of our student population may, for all practical purposes, be considered moral imbeciles ... potential if not active delinquents" may seem overly harsh. Yet there is no blinking aside the facts that in the United States, while the population from 1960-1965 gained only 6 per cent, the crime rate increased 46 per cent. And this is the generation which heard the warning of Walter Lippmann: "Modern education is based on a denial that it is necessary or useful or desirable for the schools and colleges to transmit from generation to generation the religious and classical culture of the Western world."

By way of analogy, if a third of the automobiles that came off the assembly lines fell apart within weeks or a few months of sale; if 30 per cent of all elevators installed in public buildings plunged to the bottom of the shafts shortly after installation; if one out of every three airplanes crashed at the end of the runway or shortly after takeoff, there would be a national investigation during which all cars, elevators, or airplanes would be "grounded." The seriousness of our failure to prepare young people adequately for marriage cannot be stressed enough, and the problems for Christian ethics inherent in the whole realm of courtship are so numerous as to require a far more penetrating examination than can be attempted here.

"All to the Good" - By Robert B. and Homer D. McLaren
Despite the popular impression that "most divorces begin in the boudoir", the present writers have discovered that during more than a half century of combined experience in counseling, even where the first interview started off with sexual grievances, the root problem was not the bed but the budget. It is impossible for a young wife (or husband) to be romantically responsive with a spouse who is either a stingy pinch-penny or a thoughtless spendthrift.

Intellectual maturity is another requisite for a creative and enduring relationship. Counselors have long known that where one or both partners lack interests in cultural and civic affairs, good books, music, political and scientific events in the world around them, they tend to become spiritual vegetables, parasitic and bored.

Still another realm of maturity that must be a prelude to marriage is that of emotional maturity. Most young people, of course, consider themselves quite "grown up" the first time they are given the family car to drive. Yet the young person's ability to think independently of the family without fits of violent revolt; to select sensible clothing without simply imitating the latest wild fashions of his peer group and campus friends; to accommodate himself to the needs and interests of people outside his own cultural or racial group, without either trying to dominate or to be overly submissive; to be tolerant and open with people who disagree with his political and religious views, willing both to learn and to teach—all these reflect upon his maturity.

Paradoxical as it sounds, a basic ingredient in marriage is the ability to have one's own freedom curtailed by the needs of those among whom he lives. Elton Trueblood describes as an essential feature in Christian marriage "the free acceptance of a bond, something which limits the undisciplined self-expression which is natural to man. The binding element is inherent in the family because without it, all the finer fruits of family love are impossible to produce. Marriage ties are permanently binding, not because a priest has said some words, but because an unbinding marriage is no marriage at all."

Wedlock becomes a deadlock only when there is stubborn refusal to work out differences in constructive fashion. The clash of wills may be an opportunity for achieving greater insight and appreciation for each other's orientation to life, and for developing new qualities of character.

"All to the Good" - By Robert B. and Homer D. McLaren

Man is so constituted that he cannot give 100 per cent of himself to more than one person. And to give less is to "adulterate" (the concomitant meaning of "adultery") the love relationship pledged in marriage. Every couple knows that in professing their love for each other the intrusion of a third person is painfully disturbing.

It is significant to note how this is even reflected in language. In Chinese, for example, the word-picture for peace shows a woman under one roof, while the word-picture for chaos employs the figures of many women under the same roof.

Marriage may be "made in heaven" as some sentimentalists insist, but the details of living together still have to be worked out in the bread-and-butter dimensions of daily living. The comedian who quipped, "My father got to marry my mother, but I've got to go out and marry a perfect stranger," revealed more clearly perhaps than he knew the secret anxiety of many a young person embarking on matrimony.

Two people, virtual strangers despite even a long courtship, take a tremendous step into the unknown when they present themselves for marriage, which is a lifetime commitment with no escape clause.

(Although the report that 35 per cent of the men of America hold two jobs is sufficient to raise questions about how seriously he takes his role as father rather than simply provider of a spiraling standard of living) than by the phenomenon of the working mother. "In 46.5 per cent of families where there are children of school age or below, the mother is employed outside the home.

In a child's waking day, he may spend only one or two hours with his mother, six with a woman teacher, and four or five more with a female baby sitter (either a grandmother or a total stranger). The child therefore grows up in a largely feminine dominated world, with a minimum of actual parental guidance. He also grows up in a society where an estimated 80 per cent of the wealth is in the hands of women and where the consumer market is largely female-oriented. Now, if the whole economy becomes feminized, so that even men begin using cosmetics, and adolescent boys become preoccupied with clothing and hair styles (and a glance at recent magazines, or even out the office window, will provide evidence that this is happening), we may indeed have cause for alarm.

"All to the Good" - By Robert B. and Homer D. McLaren Pages 89-90

Add to the problems of the feminized society and the weakened "father image" in the home (with its attendant loss of respect for authority) the effects of "permissive psychology" in the training of children, and a pattern of drift toward delinquency begins to appear. The police chief of a large city recently commented, "When the law took the hickory stick away from the school teacher, it put a club in the fist of delinquent kids. Parents abdicated their disciplinary role a long time ago."

Yet where children have not early learned the meaning of the word "No!" and can successfully argue their parents out of a firm position on some issue which the children themselves lack maturity to understand; where they have not been given responsibility for the upkeep of the house or apartment (and even a six-year-old can learn to make his own bed, pick up his clothes, and set the table), little can be expected in the development of self-discipline on the part of the child.

"All to the Good" - By Robert B. and Homer D. McLaren

Our civilization is largely one on wheels. Where families no longer have ties to their community which are deep and of long-standing loyalty, the sense of rootlessness can become another factor in the weakening of those bonds that make a home a reality.

Theologians have long recognized that Christian ethics is not a body of "principles" which can be applied in every situation. Each generation, indeed each year and day, witnesses the emergence of new social problems which require a rethinking of what is "right" and what is "wrong." The Church has no computer into which it can feed such problems as race relations, sexual morality, and economic boycott, hoping to receive neatly coded answers. Problems arise because of new relationships in a society which is increasingly automated and equipped with devices that make impersonal living frighteningly possible.

No Religion but the possession of the present.

Well, why should it? Lenin moved on to tearing down the religious beliefs of your young people? The "reforms" of revolution and the May 29 "Young World" printed his "Power to the People" which ought not ever raise an eyebrow from most complacent parents. This song is pure Communist rhetoric, all the way through. Hy L.

"A million workers working for nothing. You better not hear what they really want. We gotta put you down before we come into town singing power to the people."

Add the hypocrisy, beat to those words, and don't wonder why you can no longer communicate with your heritage boy and girl.

Hedonism, which proposed that "good" is a term to be applied to whatever produces pleasure, and "evil" to that which results in pain, proved inadequate because of its lack of precision and its tendency to disintegrate into mere libertine behavior.

Since neither his mother nor father really wanted anything to do with him, Joey became convinced that machines were better than people. So he thought of himself as being in the image of a machine and he began to function like one. When he was hospitalized as a sickly looking 9 year old, he carried his imaginary wire with him from room to room."
He had to be plugged in in order to run. When he sat at the table, he insulated his body with paper napkins before plugging himself in; only then could he eat. When he slept, he devised contraptions from masking tape, cardboard, and whatever else he could scrape up; these kept his body machine working through the night. In the bath tub he rocked back and forth with engine like regularity, splashing water all over the floor. When he wanted to, he could become deathly still, like a switched off machine. The hospital had a long, three year struggle to bring Joey back to reality, to convince him that he had been a person and not a mechanism."

Nothing else but man like God

[Handwritten notes and corrections]
"A man has no reason to be ashamed of having an ape for his grandfather." This was Thomas Huxley's famous reply to Bishop Wilberforce in their creation-evolution debate before the British Association for the Advancement of Science meeting in Oxford, June, 1860. One clergyman returning home from the meeting told his wife of Huxley's horrifying assertion that man was descended from apes. His wife exclaimed, "My dear! Descended from apes! Let us hope it's not true, but if it is let us pray that it will not become generally known!"

I know you have heard the story of the Chinese who had one horse and one son. One day the horse broke out of the corral and fled into the hills. All of the neighbors came around that night and said, "Your horse got out! What bad luck." Why," the old Chinese said, "How do you know it's bad luck?" Sure enough, the next night the horse came back to the familiar corral and the farmer said, "Good news!" The neighbors came and asked, "What happened?" The farmer said, "I gave my son a chance to succeed."
teen horses! What good luck!" And the old Chinese answered, "How do you know that's good luck?"

A few days later the young son was trying to break one of the wild stallions only to be thrown off and break a leg. The neighbors came back saying, "Your son broke his leg. What bad luck!" And the wise father said, "How do you know it's bad luck?" Sure enough, a few days later a Chinese war lord came through town and conscripted every able-bodied young man, taking them off to war, never to return again. But the young man was saved because of his broken leg.

There is one thing we all desperately need to learn: Only God knows what's good for us and what's bad for us. And with that in mind we must learn to trust God.

Do you remember the last night Jesus spent with his disciples? The twelve were wrestling with desperate despondency and doubt. They were few in number, had no allies, no wealth, no credentials and no references. They had come to the city of Jerusalem with foreboding. The night streets were tense. Angry men lurked in the shadows. Religious leaders were seeking the death of their Master. There were so many things of which to be afraid. And what did Jesus say to his followers? "Let not your hearts be troubled; believe in God . . ." (John 14:1). That's it. Trust in God!

And remember that Jesus never preached anything that he didn't practice. I am glad that Peter saw fit to remind us that Jesus took his own medicine. "He trusted to him who judges justly." Why shouldn't we do the same?

AUSTRALIA—Kangaroo

Australia baffled the first white explorers. When Capt. Cook pointed to the strange animal, the aborigine kept shouting back, "Kangaroo, kangaroo!" So that's how it got its name. "Kangaroo" is aborigine for "What did you say?" — JENKIN LLOYD JONES.

ORIGIN—Tuxedo—45

The name for formal male attire (tuxedo) actually means "wolf" to the American Indians. It began after the Indians named a lake, 40 miles from New York City, "tukskit" or wolf. Years afterward the white man first wore the type of full dress suit that is now formally accepted at this fashionable lake resort. The name tuxedo was transferred to the clothing and became a word in the English language. However, a tuxedo is still a "Wolf suit" to the Indians. — Why We Say —, synd col, 4-18-48.

Good Insurance

Jake, the mailman, was always in a happy frame of mind, despite the fact that it was known that life had been very hard for him. One day I asked him his philosophy for having such a sunny outlook on life. "It's this way," he explained. "When I see trouble comin', I just look up and say 'Lord, your property's in danger — you better protect it' and by golly, something usually comes up and gives a boot over the rough spot."

Lives the Chant

A lady married four times. The first man was rich, the second man was an actor, the third man was a doctor and the fourth man was an undertaker. It reminds me of the children's chant: "One for the money, two for the show, three to get ready and four to go!"

The New Testament teaches that marriage is an institution established by God in the very beginning, and is a union between one man and one woman (Matt. 19:4-6) to continue until death (1 Cor. 7:39; Rom. 7:2); that marriage is to be held in honor and the bed to be undefiled (Heb. 13:4); that a wife is to be in subjection to her husband (Eph. 5:22); that the husband is to love his own wife as his own flesh (Eph. 5:28) since they are actually "one flesh" (Matt. 19:5; Eph. 5:29-31); and that the relationship of husband and wife is no less holy and honorable than Christ's own relationship with his bride the church (Eph. 5:32-33).

P.17 THE DIVORCE DILEMMA Woodroof
THE TALE OF A LAD AND LASS

A handsome lad and a lovely lass
Strolled down the lane together,
Each day and ever — still the same —
In every kind of weather.
Tis strange, but still it's much the same
In every generation,
The kind of things they talked about
Was hardly conversation!

A nervous groom and a blushing bride
Rushed down the aisle together,
Scarce conscious of the vows they said,
Nor mindful of the weather.
They braved the showers of falling rice,
Nor sought a place of cover,
Because — that age-old word "because" —
Because they had each other!

A balding husband, greying wife
Speed down the years together,
Gone is their youth, the charm of life,
And often rough the weather.
But come what may of time or tide,
Their bonds no foe can sever,
For love found strolling down the lane
Will light their path forever!
SO--WHAT HAPPENED?
Genesis 2:23-25

1. This is the way it began.
   A. Not good for man to be alone.
      1. Man is intended to be a social being.
      2. Also religious.

         a) Lower animals his subjects.
         b) By his authority he named them.
         c) Man is born to rule.
         d) Naming shows dominion, perception, ability, intellect, reasoning.
         e) In the ancient world to give a person a name was a sign of authority over him.
f) First recorded act of man's dominion over animal.
g) Fish not included.
h) Don't know language used.
i) Show acquaintance with nature.

5. But also shows nothing made so far fit for his companionship.

D. I will make a Helpmeet.

1. Woman is the creation of God.
2. Man had no equal in the animal world--so God "built" literally a counterpart for him.
3. Man's above the animal world.
4. He feels, reasons, judges, wants, needs, gives, loves in way animals cannot.
5. Helper before him--as your face is before in a mirror.
6. She is man's complement, fills up what is lacking.
7. Counterpart.
8. She answers in every part the needs of man.
9. In all animal species Adam saw no companion--he was alone.
10. Among animals he saw 2 sex with marked differences--but he was alone.
11. Partnership based on need & desire.
12. Helpmeet in Heb. implies fitting into a unity in which each helps the other equally.
13. In our best state we need one another's help.
E. So God "Built" a Woman.
   1. Deep sleep on Adam--Adam slept while God built her!
   2. Rib from side--shows they belong together.
   3. Built: not a servant, an inferior, but a companion.
   4. Candish called it "another self whom he must love and cherish as his own body."
   5. Ish -- Issah -- man, woman.

F. Brought Her to Man
   1. God had ordained labor, right of property, dominion.
   2. Now matrimony.
   3. 3 cords--man, woman, God.

Ecc. 4:12

G. Adam's Reaction.
   1. "Bone of my bone."
      a) Welcomed as part and parcel of himself.
      b) Eve from Adam--essential unity, oneness, not an independent, competing creature.
      c) As he awakes he sees in Eve what he'd never seen in another--his counterpart.
   2. "This is it, this time."
   3. RSV This at last is bone.
   4. Saw one for whom he was looking and longing.
5. One man, one woman, til death--not Adam and Robert!

II. Demands Something.
A. Leave and Cleave.
   1. Superior relationship.
   2. Monogamy.
B. One flesh.
   1. Mankind is one.
   2. What had been 1 became 2.
      In marriage what had been 2 became 1.
   3. Marriage is the total response of 2 human beings to one another.
C. Unashamed in nakedness.
   1. Pure, blessed, without shame.
   2. God with them.
   3. Blameless and without fear.
   4. God made them for each other.
   5. Happy with each other and all outside circumstances.
   6. God creates and God cares.

III. What's Happened?
Gen. 4:3 "And in the process of time"
A. Where is this sweet innocence?
B. We run from God and scowl in defiance.
C. Woe to those who change God's order!
D. First effects of sin seen in the family in the process of time.

"No one seems to remember," writes Jacques Ellul, "that there has never been a society without a moral code, and the chief thing lacking in our Western world is precisely an ethical code and a system of accepted values."

---Jim Nelson Black
_When Nations Die_, pg. 195

Never in the history of man has any society been able to establish standards of decency, cooperation, and social order without a code of moral values. The historian Will Durant said, "There is no significant example in history, before our time, of a society successfully maintaining moral life without the aid of religion." Yet the modern code of the humanists who dominate the culture today tells us that the Christian principles upon which this nation was founded are dangerous, destructive, and divisive.

---Jim Nelson Black
_When Nations Die_, pg. 9
Openness and relativism became the great insights of modern education. As Allan Bloom asserts, students were taught to believe that the most dangerous person in America is the man or woman who believes in an absolute standard of truth. Bloom says, "The study of history and of culture teaches that all the world was mad in the past; men always thought they were right, and that led to wars, persecutions, slavery, xenophobia, racism, and chauvinism. The point is not to correct the mistakes and really be right; rather, it is not to think you are right at all." Teachers say that everything is relative; there are no absolutes.

--Jim Nelson Black
When Nations Die, pg. 88

And those are just the problems we all see on the surface. Many of their struggles are more subtle and confusing—the mixed messages they get from sex and violence on television; the humanistic approach to education that counters everything they've been taught at home; the lack of moral guidance in the community, school and government; the eggshells they walk on daily due to the "politically correct" environment they are forced to live in; the pressure girls face from the backlash of the "women's movement;" the influx of cultic ideals and theories brought on by the New Age.

The Kid-Friendly Dad, pg.16
violent crime leapt from 250,000 in 1962 to 1.7 million in 1990. In short the court-mandated removal of prayer, devotionals, and any exposure to religious values from our schools has been the major contributing cause of the moral breakdown in our society.

In his well-documented analysis of the cultural changes of the last thirty years, David Barton reports that between 1963 and 1990, SAT scores of college-bound students plunged more than 80 points. At the same time, illegitimate births have soared from 15 per 1,000 to 35 per 1,000 for girls aged fifteen to nineteen. Total pregnancies for unwed girls between fifteen and nineteen have soared from 100,000 in 1963 to 650,000 in 1987. Sexually transmitted diseases among teenagers have soared from 350 cases per 100,000 to 1,200 cases; and premarital sex among teenage girls has jumped from 23 percent to 70 percent. At the same time, the divorce rate in this country has shot up from 2.2 per 1,000 in 1962 to 4.7 in 1990. Single-parent households have risen from 4.6 million to 10.9 million. And the incidence of violent crime leapt from 250,000 in 1962 to 1.7 million in 1990. In short the court-mandated removal of prayer, devotionals, and any exposure to religious values from our schools has been the major contributing cause of the moral breakdown in our society.
"Illegitimacy is the single most important social problem of our time," and family instability and single-parent families are direct contributors to the sociological problems of our day.

New research shows that children without fathers are more likely to get involved in crime and other antisocial behaviors. According to a recent report from the Washington-based Family Research Council, it is "children without fathers who commit the crimes." Citing Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), the report shows that more than 70 percent of juveniles in reform institutions grew up in single-parent or no-parent families. "Attacking the crime problem," they say, "is disproportionately a problem of young unsupervised males."

Half of all first and second marriages in America end in divorce. The idea of three, four, and five marriages—once a sure sign of debauchery reserved for movie stars and celebrities—is becoming common in suburbia. Living together has become the lifestyle of choice for the majority of young couples today, despite all the evidence that shows that couples who cohabit are less likely to stay together than those who choose marriage.

Perhaps the saddest statistic of divorce, and one that is often overlooked, is that nearly 60 percent of all first and second divorces involve children under the age of eighteen. Each year more than a million children become the innocent victims of divorce. Lawyers and counselors once suggested that the effects of divorce on children were about as serious as the common cold.
To adapt or accommodate Christian faith and practices, especially worship, to the tastes and moods of a given era or culture is always dangerous. There is a sober wisdom in the old adage that "he who marries the spirit of the age soon becomes a widower."

--Christian Studies No.13, pg.53

Now it may be that everyone needs to read a few sex books in order to satisfy his adolescent curiosity safely, to understand the nature of his own body. But successful sex in marriage isn't acquired by a study of technique or anatomy. It's acquired by growth in loving, in giving to, in wanting to please the person for whom you've forsaken all others.

--Irene Burk Harrell
"Good Marriages Grow", pg. 90
I think often about the Ogden Nash verse that contains so much truth and wisdom:

To keep your marriage brimming
With love in the loving cup,
Whenever you're wrong, admit it Whenever you're right, shut up.

—Irene Burk Harrell
"Good Marriages Grow", pg. 27

I expect to pass through life but once.
If, therefore, there be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do to any fellow being,
Let me do it now, for I shall not pass this way again.

—William Penn

Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it (Proverbs 22:6)

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much.

A Father's Book of Wisdom, Compiled by H. Jackson Brown, Jr.
1. Do you remember the moment—or do you anticipate it—your wedding.
   A. What did you say?
   B. Did you "I take you, John, to be my husband—to have & to hold from this day forward."
   C. Purpose of this lesson—what do you as a woman need to invest to get the job done.
   1. I realize it "takes two to tango"—but I speak to you as a woman about your part.
   2. There are definitely things for the husband—we will get him later, but now the emphasis is on you.
   3. I further realize this isn't all—but it least is part of the "glue". (Tell story of seeing the Belter furniture in Union City—Knowing that renowned cabinet maker used violin glue in his lamination because it's the best he had. I give you some "violin glue" to help you make some sweet music you provide your own "Elmer's" as you further strengthen this lesson.

II. It seems 1st imperative we ask "What is your attitude toward marriage to start with."
   A. Answer for me these 7 questions:
      1. Have I or will I enter marriage idealistically?
      2. Which one of us is getting the better end of the bargain?
      3. Have I considered a possible termination point to this marriage anywhere short of death?
      4. If quizzed as to the attitudes I feel are imperative to possess that this marriage may truly work, what essential attitudes would I list? Does my list include:

a.) Love.
b.) Self acceptance of self & of spouse – or are we in a process of remaking?
c.) Circumstantial acceptance—income, house, education, vocation, in-laws?

5. Do I anticipate happiness?
6. Am I tuned to the ideal that this can be nothing but successful?

7. What am I as a woman?
   a.) Earth mother?
   b.) Temptress?
   c.) Weakling? Read Gen. 1:26 "Let them, etc.
   d.) Matriarchal aggressor?
   e.) Made in the image of God?
   f.) What Bible impressions do I get from the Bible & everyday speech of a woman’s "place”:
      (1) Sun (he).
      (2) Earth (Mother).
      (4) Freedom Gal. 4:4; 31
      (5) Purity Rev. 21:2
      (6) Wisdom (her) Prov. 9:1; 14:1
      (7) Church Rev. 19:7-8
   g.) Are you mad because God is He? What’s the Devil? Rev. 12:9 2 Cor. 11:14-15 Isa. 14:13
8. Are you ready for a test——how do you measure up to the worthy woman? Prov. 31:10-31
   1. Heart of husband safely trusts.
   2. Does him constant good.
   3. Works willingly & long.
   4. Healthy, Faithful, Happy.
   5. Realistic.
   6. Cares for family.
   7. Organized.
   8. Makes long-range plans.
  10. Compassionate.
  11. Courageous.
  12. Wants quality.
  13. Asset to her husband, encourages him.
  15. Intelligent.
  16. Loved by her children.
  17. Her husband proud of her — and tells all.
  18. Fears God.

III. Womanly obligations in marriage (Gen. 2:20 — Help mate).
   A. Can I satisfy my husband's needs:
      1. Spiritually.
      Ps. 37:4 "Delight thyself also in the Lord
      1 Pet. 3:1 "Likewise ye wives be in subjection
      Deut. 30:6 "Love God...that thou mayest live"
      2. Mentally.
      1 Peter 1:13 "Wherefore gird up the loins of your James 1:5 "If any of you lack wisdom Mk. 12:30 "Thou shalt...all thy mind a.) Can you intelligently discuss what means most to him?
b.) Can you let him come home & forget his work?
c.) Do you help him maintain balance?
d.) Are things kept in proper perspective?
e.) Do you do "outside readings" & run a "clipping service" for him?

3. Sexually
Gen. 1:31 "And God saw everything...very good 1 Cor. 7:5 "Defraud ye not one the other a.) Do sexual relationships demonstrate love?
b.) Is there a need to be met in man stronger than in woman?
c.) How do you avoid the two pitfalls--she feels used of body & he feels abuse of pocketbook?

4. Emotionally
a.) Do I have a steady disposition?
b.) Do I know what makes him:
   Sad?
   Glad?
   Satisfied?
   Frustrated?
c.) What do I appreciate most in my husband - tell him!
d.) Does he carry the workload? If so, does he want supper, paper, TV, kids, or sloppy clothes when he comes home & do I cooperate?
e.) Do I watch for the minor crisis f.) Clipping on Male emotional cycles.
B. Am I Aware of the Marriage Murderer?

1. Name some problem areas.
   a.) Submission. See both Eph. 5:22 & 21.
   b.) Authority - who decides - we form a jury & try ourselves!
   c.) Pride.
   d.) Differences of temperament.
   e.) Being a door mat.
   f.) "Space whirl" - Pressure crushes.
   g.) Recreation - what type - golf vs. needlepoint.
   h.) Having guests.
   i.) Money management 1 Cor. 12:14
   j.) Staying beautiful.
   k.) Absentee husband.
   l.) Married to a job hoper.
   m.) Failures.
   n.) Non-communicative husband.
   o.) In-laws.
   p.) Possessiveness.
   q.) Sagging gentlemanly qualities - no longer open doors.
   r.) Weariness - Mother would say "I'm life weary."
   s.) Jealousy.
   t.) Moods.
   u.) Age.

2. How shall I solve them?
   a.) By nagging?
   b.) By running from them?
   c.) By refusal to face? d.) Do I meet pressure by exploding? Or do I leave home for the library or picnic? Have I identified the stress? Do I recheck my schedule? Are there some jobs I always put off because I don't like them?

Ecc. 9:10 "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might.

Prov. 22:3 "A prudent man foreseeeth the evil, a fool walketh and is secure.

e.) Private argument vs. table debate. Can I discuss it, drop it, divine it - in prayer?

f.) Would family worship help?

3. Remember: Life has a great constant - the Lord & His Word. Truth is absolute; the uncompromising manual is His Word.

Male Emotional Cycles

Did you know that men have emotional cycles too?* The cycle usually changes every two weeks, but their “moods” seem more pronounced once a month. I have read that many businessmen are aware of these cycles and will not make important decisions during their low points. With some men these moods are more obvious. During these times they need special, tolerant understanding. You may find that your husband sinks periodically into gloom and discouragement for seemingly no reason at all. His responsibilities at work trouble him and he tends to lose his perspective. From his Hargreaves, Industrial Health Consultant.

A certain husband was angry because his wife had bought a very expensive fur coat. "Why did you have to spend so much money?" he roared.

"Well, dear," confessed his contrite wife, "I guess Satan tempted me too much."

"Then why didn't you say, Get thee behind me, Satan?"

"Darling, I did, but he just jumped over the shoulder and said..."
A Texas rancher and his wife walked into a bank with a huge sack of money.

"I want to deposit this cash. It adds up to $65,000."

The teller said, "It will take two hours to count this."

"All right," said the rancher, "I'll be back after lunch."

When the couple returned, the teller said, "I'm sorry, sir, we have counted the money four times, and each time we get only $60,000."

"You see, I was right," said the rancher to his wife, "We brought the wrong sack."

One man approached another man on the street, tapped him on the back and said, "Joe Smith! I'm glad to see you, but tell me, what happened to you? Last time I saw you you were short and fat; now you are tall and thin."

The other man interrupted him and said: "Look, my name is not Joe Smith."

"So," said the first man, "you changed your name, too?"
Understanding

Next to acceptance, the most important key to a destroy-acceptance-is-understanding. Understanding your husband should be one of your most important concepts. Does he feel you really understand him? Here are some questions to check your U.O. (understanding.

1. What is the happiest thing that ever happened to your husband? What brings him the most happiness today?

2. What about you does he appreciate the most?

3. What has been the hardest experience in his life, the saddest thing that ever happened to him? What causes him the most anxiety today?
What are his deep fears?

4. What are his secret ambitions, his goals for his life?

5. On what does he place the most value? What is his attitude toward money, savings, insurance and security?

6. What is his attitude toward sex, children, his family? Your family?

7. Men or men does he most admire?

Do you really know and understand your husband?
can he talk to you and not be ridiculed? Can he confide in you and know his confidences will be safely minimized? Do you minimize his weaknesses and empha-

THE BEGINNING OF SIN

Gen. 3:1-12

(These notes are from Elam's Notes - 1926)

I. Today we cannot positively locate the garden.
   A. Eden means pleasure, delight.
   B. But we can locate the beginning of sin.

II. Note these things.
    A. Sin began when man disobeyed God.
    Gen. 2:16-17
       1. But sin was already in existence before man fell.
    Jn. 8:44  "He was a murderer from the beginning..."
       2. Angels sinned.
    2 Pet. 2:4  "God spared not the angels that sinned..."
    Jude 6  "And angels that kept not their first..."
    1 Jn. 3:4
    1 Jn. 5:17  "All unrighteousness is sin...
    Rom. 3:20  "Through the law cometh..."
       4. Adam and eve sinned when they disobeyed.
B. Sin begins in yielding to temptation.
James 1:13-15 "Let no man say when he...
C. Sin began when Adam disobeyed God.
D. Disobedience brings ruin.
Rom. 5:19 "For as by one man's disobedience" 1 Cor. 15:21-22 "For since by man came death..."

Jn. 5:29
Rom. 5:12-21

E. Tree of life there for a purpose.
Gen. 3:22-24

F. Separated from the tree man had to die.
Rev. 22:2

III. Note the subtlety of Satan.
A. Jesus commends his wisdom.
Matt. 10:16
2 Cor. 11:3 "But I fear, lest by any means."
   1. He is the old serpent.
   2. He is the deceiver.
Rev. 12:7-9
2 Cor. 11:13-15 "Satan fashions himself into..."
   3. There is no truth in him.
   4. He well knew what God had said when he asked the question.
B. Instead of driving Satan away Eve parleyed with him.
   1. She was unsatisfied with what she had.
   2. Satan progressively moved her to sin.

C. Temptation threefold.
   1 Jn. 2:16 "The lust of flesh, eye, vain of glory."
      1. Good for food--lust of flesh.
      2. Delight to eyes--vain of glory.
      4. Didn't see shame, sorrow and death.

D. Eve yielded and felt consequences.
   Gen. 3:16
   1 Tim. 2:11-15
   1 Cor. 11:3
   1 Cor. 14:34-35

   E. Woman out of place a great menace.
   F. Rebellion greatest sin - but submission brings peace.
   G. Made ashamed and afraid.
   Jn. 3:19 "And men loved darkness..."
   1 Jn. 4:18 "There is no fear in love..."
   Nu. 32:23 "Be sure your sins..."

   IV. Great question now - where art thou?
   Rom. 6:23
"For a lie which is half the truth is ever the greatest of lies
Since a lie which is all a lie may be met and fought outright
But a lie which is part a truth is harder matter to fight.

Tennyson
WHAT'S MEANT BY SUBMISSION?
Gen. 3:14-16

1. Do you remember Chaucer's version of Patient Griselda? (It was from the Middle Ages — Petrarch recorded it in Italy about 1350 and Chaucer 1390 — called it "The Clerk's Tale").

A. It goes like this:
   1. Lord Walter was urged to marry.
   2. On wedding day announced choice of bride — very poor but very poor girl, beautiful and virtuous.
   3. They had a daughter.
   4. Walter said baby was wrong sex — rough servant took it off to die. Griselda, meek, no protest must obey husband.
   5. Four years later — boy born. When he was two Walter said baby must die — he came from commoner, unfit to inherit throne. OK by Griselda.
   6. Six years later Walter told perfect wife he must divorce her, marry royalty — she went home in disgrace but no complaint.
   7. Later in rags she's called back to palace to prepare for Walter's wedding. Did so sweetly. One request — don't kill children of this union — high born lady might not could take it.

(from her)
8. Walter satisfied—revealed his new bride was their 12 year old daughter. 8 year old brother brought back.
9. Griselda passed 3 tests—2 pretended murders, cruel divorce—now could live in peace—proved she was submissive.
10. Do these 1212 lines of Middle English poetry prove submission?

B. Reminded of Martin Luther when Copernicus taught earth orbits sun said "This fool wishes to reverse the entire scheme of astronomy. But sacred Scripture tells us Joshua commanded the sun to stand still, not the earth." One wrote, Kathrun Lindskoog, "I enjoy a man who errs in heroic proportions when he errs."

11. What Then is Submission of Woman to Man: Is it true, is it absolute, is it current?

A. True?

Gen. 3:16 "Thy desire shall be to thy husband & he"
1. Was this to punish Eve or give Adam responsibility for order in the family?
2. "Rule" is used in Bible to speak of a ruler of a nation, how a person rules his own spirit.
3. Have dominion, subdue, guide, oversee.

2 Sam. 23:3 "He that r. over men must be just, fear"
Prov. 12:24 — Diligent
Prov. 29:2 — Righteous
Prov. 28:15 — Roaring lion, ranging bear — wicked (husbands bears & lions?) 3.

4. Rule was for protection, not punishment.

B. True today?

Eph. 5:21 "Submitting yourselves one to another"

1. Mutual subjugation - both parties submit themselves one to another.

2. Each has a role.

Eph. 5:22 "Wives submit yourselves unto your own hus.

3. Never unqualified but "as to the Lord".

4. Never submit to sin, selfishness, or arbitrary will of husband.

5. Help husband grow to full measure of the stature of Christ. (4:13)

6. Christ is our model.

7. Wives are not independent, arrogant.

8. They are in subjection to agape love of husband.
   a) Selfless.
   b) Self sacrificing.
   c) Come from the heart.

9. Christ "gave" (v-25) wives submit to the giving of the husbands.

10. All creatures with 2 exceptions have willingly taken place appointed them by God: angels who rebelled & Adam and Eve.

Col. 3:18-19 "Wives submit... as it is fit"

Col. 3:19 "Husbands love... be not bitter"

12. Agape: seeks not its own good but that of others.
14. Embittered - (PIKRAIN)
   a) Sharp.
   b) Pointed.
   c) Gouging of wife physically or emotionally.
   d) Don't let responsibilities of headship become sharp pain to the husband.
15. "You can't make proper use of a thing unless you know what it was made for, whether it is a safety pin or a sailboat".
   Eliz. Elliott.
16. Russian proverb, "It is easier to manage a sackful of fleas than one woman".
17. Goldwater clip. #4

III. But you rightfully say, "You are dealing with marriage - show a universal sphere."

A. Turn to 1 Cor. 11:3-15.
   1. Is this broad or does man and woman stand for husband and wife.
   2. Tough passage because:
      V-5 "Women pray & prophesy" where?
      V-continuing - covering, hair, veil.
      Are hats or hair veils?
      Scholars aren't sure - my Sisters are - few with hats!
3. In those days of Paul,
   a) When in public women veiled.
   b) Hair in knot or braid on top of head.
   c) This a sign; not available.
   d) Unmarried & prostitutes not so.
   e) Shaven if guilty of adultery.
4. Did Christian women go to extreme to show new liberty?
5. Should we be concerned about our appearance & example?
6. Headship does not mean superiority or rule but source or origin.
7. Authority – v-10
   a) Does not mean exert strength.
   b) But being in leadership roll.
8. If not married, are all women to be in subjection to all men? Hardly think so.
9. Ramsay on veils. #

IV. Submission is What?
A. Overt behavioral action.
   1. Proceeds out of attitude of humility.
   2. We esteem others above ourselves.
   3. We are concerned about another’s needs & yield our own rights to benefit.

B. We submit to –
   1. God’s will.
   "Submit yourselves therefore to God"
   2. Christ
   "Therefore as the church is subject unto Ch.

James 4:7
Eph. 5:24
3. Higher authority.
Rom. 13:1 "Let every soul be subject unto the powers."

4. Children to parents.
Eph. 6:1 "Children, obey your parents in the Lord."

C. Submission is not:
   1. Power conquering but voluntary yielding.
   2. Not Big but loving you.
   3. Circuit Judge illustration.
   4. Peter Peter Pumpkin Eater

Office manager to a group of employees: “All those disagreeing with me signify by saying, ‘I quit.’” vented Ms. had a patent on it, he or she would be rich today. (How does he or she grab you? Yech.)

WHAT ARE WOMEN ENTITLED TO?

Miss and Mrs. are both abbreviated forms of the old title Mistress (remember “Mistress Mary, quite contrary, how does your garden grow?”), and Mistress was used for either single or married women. Ms., although a new invention, follows naturally in that old tradition as a new abbreviation of the same old neutral term that gave us Miss and Mrs.

There is nothing sinister or disrespectful about the non-committal Ms. It is short, polite, and practical and will save the nation much ink, time, and energy. (Of course, we would save more ink, time, and energy if we followed the example of the old Quakers and dropped the whole silly title business altogether.) The only disadvantage to Ms. is that it looks better than it sounds. Try reading my limerick aloud. (This limerick is having fun with abbreviations rather than making fun of feminists.)

Gee Whs.!
A thirsty young lady named Ls.
Was a libber and called herself Ms.
She drank a whole pail
Of ice-cold ginger ale
And said, “How I do like its fs.”

Of course the adoption of Ms. is a minor matter compared to the trend for some women to retain their birth-given names when they marry rather than taking their husbands’ names. Women who are public figures have done that all along, but rarely have ordinary women tried it until now. It is legal in most states. It will make record-keeping more difficult, I suppose, but the real puzzler is how to name the children. So far, couples are handling this in various interesting ways.
Is Submission Stifling?

Does a submissive woman do nothing else but submit? It is too bad that the issues raised by those called liberationists have led to the making of false antitheses. It is an old political tactic and seems at first to strengthen the case for one side against the other, but ultimately it is self-destructive. The mail has just come, bringing a letter which illustrates this confusion.

You were present when I spoke recently to the honor society in your college on “A Christian View of Liberation.” The college forwarded to me the protest of an alumna:

“To invite a speaker to tell the women who have just been chosen as the most academically gifted in the entire graduating class that their highest fulfillment is to be found in subjecting themselves to a man in marriage is incredible in this day and age. It would have been unthinkable even a century ago! Why is this college educating women if their primary calling is to be motherhood? Intellectual women in the Christian world have a difficult enough time without adding insult to injury. They need encouragement not stifling.”

(Eliza Elliott) Let Me Be a Woman
Women's lib lost one and won one against men's lib. First the N.Y State Human Rights Division ordered race tracks to scratch “Ladies night” on grounds that they discriminated against men. But then the Internal Revenue Service ruled that a bald woman can deduct the cost of a wig if it contributes to her mental wellbeing. No such allowance was made for males.

_St. Louis Labor Tribune_

When you meet someone who can cook and do housework, don't hesitate a minute—marry him.

I admit I don't understand women. But I don't understand some men, either!

34). This is followed by confronting the Corinthians' abuse of spiritual gifts including the undue stress on some to the depreciation of others (12:1-31) and their loveless use of them (13:1-13). Then Paul deals with the problem of exercising tongues without interpretation (14:1-25), and concludes with the church's disorder in worship (14:26-40).

The Apostle begins 11:3-16 from the general and probably cross-cultural (Jew and Gentile) position that women in public are to be veiled. On this Sir William Ramsay writes, "In Oriental lands the veil is the power and the honour and dignity of the woman. With the veil on her head she can go anywhere in security and profound respect. She is not seen; it is a mark of thoroughly bad manners to observe a veiled woman in the street. She is alone. The rest of the people around her are non-existent to her. But without the veil the woman is a thing of nought, whom anyone may insult...A woman's authority and dignity vanish along with the all-covering veil that she discards." Thus for Paul, Christian freedom cannot mean unveiled women who violate the general order of society. The church is not an enthusiastic cult abrogating the common life. Paul's dictum, "Give no offense to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God, just as I try to please all men in everything I do, not seeking my own advantage, but that of the many, that they may be saved" (10:32-33), is here applied to women in worship.

The discussion begins by establishing that there is a divine order of hierarchy of headship. God is the head of Christ (literally, "the Messiah"), Christ is the head of man and the husband is the head of his wife.

Headship does not so much mean superiority or rule as it means source or origin. For example, in Ephesians 5:23ff Christ is the head of the church because as its Savior He brings it into existence. In Ephesians 4:15-16 Christ as the head nourishes His body as it grows up into Him. Since the head is the source of life, when Paul writes that "the head of every man is Christ," he means
A circuit court judge friend of ours illustrated the principle this way: "While I am in the court room, I am the final authority (the "head") in the relationship there. Everyone else in the courtroom must submit to me. I am not the "head" because I am superior to everyone else, but because that is my role or position—that is my job in the judicial system. But when I leave the court room and drive down the street toward my home, I have to submit to the school crossing guard. That young child is not superior to me, but in that situation, the child is the authority (the "head") and I must submit to him."

In 1918 H. L. Mencken declared, "Find me an intelligent man, a man free from sentimentality and illusion, a man hard to deceive, a man of first class, and I'll show you a man with a wide streak of woman in him."

And clear back around 1800 Samuel Taylor Coleridge came THE EVERLASTING EVE
Gen. 3:20-21

I. When we say "Eve" it's the immediacy of a coming event.
   A. Christmas Eve
   B. New Year's Eve

II. It usually heralds an event that quickly will pass.

III. May I tell you of an "Everlasting Eve." It tells of a blessing still ours and still gloriously producing good, namely women.
   A. The first one was Eve, the mother of all living.
   B. The present one is all my sisters in Christ, producing good—married, single, or widowed.

IV. From 2 verses may I tell you the 1st Eve.
Gen. 3:20-21

   A. See the timing.
      1. Just after the promise of the seed of the woman bruising head of serpent.
      2. Just before garden expulsion.
   B. Thus note it was a Garden of Eden event.
   C. Adam called his wife Eve.
      1. Adam = red earth.
      2. He named his wife - we still do and it finally ends up "Momma."
      3. Think of all the pet names that husbands call wives!
      4. Broadman says when Adam 1st saw Eve he was so startled (contrasting her with apes & baboons) he could not have named her had he tried.
All he could say was "Part of me, Part of me."

5. He also said "It's a hit."

D. Eve
1. Define
   a) Living
   b) Life
   c) Chawwah
   d) Zoe in Greek = life
   e) Life source
   f) Latin = Vivo (life)
   g) Barnhouse says it's a title not a name.

E. Mother of All Living.
1. She was the pledge of life.
2. She's the remedy for death.
3. Adam the name of the dying body—to dust we will return.
   Eve the name of the living soul.
4. Adam heard the word of the promise & called her Eve.

Rom. 16:20
Rev. 2:7

5. Husbands, note this attitude and follow it.
   a) He saw his wife in thus a higher value—life.
   b) She is the compensation.
   c) Adam looked not to Eve and thought of the fall—but thought of hope for the future.
   d) Do we try to see the best in people?
V. Now note what God did for our Parents.

A. The Lord God Spoke
1. It is God who made the gift of clothes - so acknowledge Him.

Gen. 28:20
2. He still has gifts for his people.

Hos. 2:9
3. God corrects but doesn't disinherit because of a mistake of which we are pentitent and learning.
4. God cares in spite of our sins.

B. He makes clothing.
1. God not a furrier.
2. Nor a tailor to make clothes.
3. He makes us do his orders and thus he does it same way with us - we take credit for a work we authorized and expensed.

C. Clothing was of Skins.
1. Adam & Eve mentioned individually shows 2 different kinds of clothes since man & woman are not to be alike - Bush.

Deut. 22:5
2. We accommodate our body's appearance for the benefit of all.
3. I've lived through many style changes and 2 hair revolutions -- women short and men long.
4. I'll be like the little boy who wanted a haircut like his dad's - it had a hole in the middle.
5. Skins
   a) Earlier had fig leaves.
   b) Lit. twined tender branches of fig tree for girdle.
   c) Now skins.
   d) Clothing strong - and plain - added Scott - could be.
   e) 3rd garment worn by man in this chapter: light, figs, skins - Barnhouse.
6. Several factors this supports.
   a) It's right to kill animals for man's benefit.
   b) It does not say at this time they ate flesh.
   c) Slaying of a beast would show them what death is.
Gen. 9:3
Ecc. 3:18
   d) It would pinpoint the necessity of sacrifice, tho surely not sacrifice there in the garden.
VI. Was there a spiritual lesson in the Sacrifice & the Clothing of Man?
   A. These points are often made.
      1. Man has shame and cannot cover it.
      2. All man has is fig leaves & that is not enough. We have virtually nothing to offer.
   Isa. 28:20
      3. Man can't cloth himself - God can.
      4. Clothing comes at the price of life.
5. The life given had no guilt -- it had no share in their sins.
6. Unfallen man - no covering.
   Fallen man - conscious of need.
   Fallen man - attempts to cover.
   Fallen man - must have God provide.

B. Spiritually - atone means to Cover.
1. Christ's death provides our covering.
2. Clothes God makes are durable -- so is Christ to cover us.
3. Adam's apron had no blood on it - God's clothes do!
4. When clothed we are not naked - no reason to hide - God covers us spiritually - come boldly into His presence.

FACTS FROM CAIN AND ABEL

(These notes from Elam's Notes 4/25/1926)

Gen. 4:1-2

I. Abiding in this account are great lessons.
   A. Proper Worship – first worship account.
   B. Necessity of Faith.
   C. Anger and Murder – first murder
   D. Religious Divisions – first time

II. Relative to Faith
   A. It's impossible to please God without it.
      Heb. 11:6 "He that cometh to God..."
      B. God required blood.
      Heb. 9:22 "Apart from the shedding...no remission."
      1 Jn 1:7 "The blood of Jesus his Son cleanseth.."
      C. Sacrifice prefigured Jesus- Jn. 1:29.
         The lamb.

III. Worship
   A. We cannot substitute man's wisdom for God's way.
   B. God states how He wants to be worshipped.
      1. Worship in spirit and truth.
2. It is after the spirit not flesh.
   Gal. 4:29
3. Satan's way is not superior to God's.
4. He tells man he knows best.
Mark 7:6-9 "Well did Isaiah prophesy..."
   a) To worship via tradition is to reject God's commands.
   b) To worship God's way is to reject the "doctrine and precepts of man."
   c) We make the choice of the method: God's way or devil's way.

C. Cain and Abel never in Eden.
Gen. 5:4
   1. Eve rejoiced with Cain firstborn "with the help of Jehovah."
   2. Then came Abel not twins, and there were many more born.
   3. Abel a shepherd; Cain a farmer.
   4. Adam 130 years old when Seth came.
Gen. 4:25-26
Gen. 5:3

D. After a time Cain and Abel came to worship God as from the beginning men need to do this.
Gen. 4:26 "Then began men to call upon.."
Gen. 8:20
1. There were altars, offerings, and the revealed will of God.
2. Worship could be acceptable or unacceptable.
3. Cain brought the fruit of the ground.
4. Abel brought the firstlings of his flock.

E. Obvious Truths
1. Both men believed in the existence of God.
2. Both believed God should be worshipped.
3. Both worshipped God.
4. To Abel God had respect.
5. To Cain God had not respect.

F. Why was one acceptable and one not?
1. Cain's (v.7) sin lay at the door, sin prompted what he did.
   1 Jn. 3:12 Cain was of the evil one and slew—his works were evil, his brother's righteous.
   Jude 1 1. Wicked and rebellious went the way of Cain.
2. Satan led Cain to offer unacceptable worship.
3. A man can be unrighteous and evil while offering to God.
4. Difference was not in the worth of the sacrifice.
5. Faith was the difference.
Heb. 11:4 "By faith Abel offered unto God."
Rom. 10:17 "Faith comes by hearing the word..."
Heb. 11:6 "Without faith it's impossible to please..."

6. One cannot do by faith what God has not commanded.
7. If God has not spoken it, we cannot know what pleases Him.
1 Cor. 2:10-16 "Not in the words which man's wisdom teaches but what spirit teaches..."

8. God said what He wanted else Abel could not have worshipped by faith.
9. By faith we can't offer a sacrifice God has not commanded.
10. No blood via Cain.
    Blood via Abel's sacrifice.
11. Cain offered that of his own choosing.
12. No salvation without blood of Jesus--so must not in any way slight it.

G. Essential we believe in God, that He should be worshipped, it's done by faith, not human wisdom.
1. Devil trip to get us to alter it.
2. Example of Moses at Kadesh.

Num. 27:12-14
a) Aaron rebelled against word.
b) Action shows they "believed in God."
c) Moses struck twice and spoke unadvisedly.

Mark 20:10
Ps. 106:33

d) Speaking not enough—so he did more, doing what God did not command.
e) Such action springs from an "evil heart of unbelief."

Heb. 3:12
1 Sam. 15:22 "To obey is better than to sacrifice..."

H. God conversed with Cain.

Heb. 4:6-7
1. We can worship God and not do well.
2. We do well when we obey; the conscience then is clear.
3. If we do not well; sin is at the door.
4. We should rule over sin.

I. Satan is happy for you to worship if you do it his way.
1. Cain never asked for God's instructions.
2. We get it today from the Bible.

J. Cain and Abel talked it over - v.8.
1. Only safe way is to do what God calls for.
2. Our way not superior to God's.

Isa. 55:8-9

3. Thus the first religious division came.
4. What caused it? Your way, my way, or God's way?
5. Are we the ones at blame if we do it only God's way?
6. Cain had the bitter spirit.
7. All this led to murder, as one sin leads to another—vain worship, jealousy, lying, murder.
   "Where is your brother? I know not."
8. Let's be our brother's keeper.
9. Can't live and die unto ourself.

Acts 20:26
Rom. 14:7

10. Abel bless us.

Heb. 11:4
RAISING CAIN
Gen. 4:1-7
1. I have no idea why she chose one son's name.
   A. Eve sometime in her marriage to Adam, apparently living close to the garden of Eden out of which they'd been shoved, gave birth to two boys.
      1. Not her only children.
      2. Perhaps not her first.
   B. Cain and Abel
      1. Little boy answered "who was Cain's brother?" with "Sloan, I think."
      2. Cain
         a) Acquired
         b) Obtained
         c) Gained, possession
      3. Abel
         a) Vanity, life miserable(?)
         b) Loss
         c) Breath
      4. Why?
         a) Did she know the messianic promise?
Gen. 3:15
   b) Was this birth hard & Abel's a breeze?
   c) Were they twins--conception is mentioned only with Cain.
C. Timely question--how did they get here? Miracle or natural?
      a) More than obtaining facts.
b) Intimate relationship with same person.

c) Know here & v-9 "I know not."

d) Recognize her nature & ability.

2. Man - Woman - God

a) John Willis - "conception and birth a cooperative enterprise with man-woman-God!"

b) God: makes fashions

Job 31:15 "Made me in the womb"

Ps. 139:14 "I am fearfully & wonderfully made"

Ps. 139:13 "Thou covered me in my mother's" forms

Jer. 1:5 "Before I formed thee in the body" knits

c) Children are a gift of God.

Gen. 33:5-9 "The children whom God hath graciously

Ps. 127:3 "Heritage of the Lord"

 d) If we regard all as God's gift I'll respect you.

e) By help of the Lord.

II. Men with varying jobs.
  A. Abel kept sheep.
  B. Cain tilled ground.

1. Some animosity between 2 vocations-shepherd wants grass & farmer wants row. God not intended.

2. Men differ in taste, talents and pursuit of work.

3. Nothing derogatory intended about either.

4. Poem--when God, etc.
III. Men had varying offering.
   A. Both to the Lord.
   B. Both in the process of time.
      1. End of days.
      2. God author of order.
   C. Cain's was fruit of the ground.
      1. It was inadequate.
      2. We must bring God what He wants--not what we think is best.

Prov. 14:12 There is a way that seemeth right
John 4:24 God is a spirit, and they that worship
   3. "Cain wanted the world to spin on his axis." (Murray)
   4. Cain came to God on his own terms.
   5. Coffman calls him the 1st innovator.

D. Abel brought Firstlings--the fattest of his flock.
   1. We don't know how animal sacrifice started.
   2. Nothing is too good for God--we bring the best we've got.
   3. Barnhouse shows the progression.
      1 man -- 1 lamb
      1 household -- 1 lamb (Exo. 12)
      1 nation -- 1 sacrifice (Day of Atonement)
      1 Christ -- 1 world
   4. Animals compared with animals he brought the best.
   5. Fat is best of the best.
Ezek. 34:3 6 See:
Exo. 13:12 Set apart every firstling
Heb. 12:23

E. God Can Accept & Reject
1. Why accept?
   a) By faith.
2. Why reject?
   a) Not properly prepared.
   b) Not bloody
   c) Not the best
   d) Not himself with it
1 Jn. 3:1-12 (Read)
   e) Not in faith
   f) Not from one who would resist temptation.

3. We want our way!

Rem.

4. Do we see a personal God?
5. Nothing special about Cain's gift--anything will do.
6. Cain's Countenance Fell--was angry, (burned).
   a) Face that reveals God is prettiest.
   b) First disturbance in act of worship resulting from it.
7. God's quiz and warning.
   a) If Cain does right the next time all will be OK.
   b) See the mercy.
c) Two alternatives—humble self and return doing right; or reject and pout.
d) Do good & communicate.
Heb. 13:15-16 But to do good & to forget not

e) Do well—sinless & innocent.

8. Sin crouches at the door.
a) Bible same in every generation—sin—evade—punish; repent, live.
b) Sin offering at the door—take it via grace.
c) Sin crouches.
d) It's near—at door—opening.
e) It's not difficult to obtain.

9. Some do not profit from what God says—will we?

When Charles Kettering, for years vice-president and director of General Motors' research laboratories, was just beginning his inventive career in Ashland, Ohio, he worked out a central battery telephone exchange. This did away with the nuisance of cranking the phone in the rural communities. It seemed like a huge success, but at one point was in danger of being scrapped. Every afternoon the whole system went dead for about two hours. Kettering worked frantically for weeks trying to locate the trouble. He finally discovered that out on one of the farms a certain grandfather had the habit of laying his spectacles on top of the telephone every afternoon while he took a nap. This explained the difficulty. His glasses short-circuited the whole system.

The unrepentant Cain of us short-circuits the blessing of worship.
INFURIATING WORSHIP

I. The worship of God should bring peace and joy—not anger and hurt.
   A. Rachael SImp article.
   B. Dr. Thurman and Ed Turrentine argue and Ed walks home.
   C. With Cain and Abel we come to praise and poison—it should not be.

II. Early days of civilization and God speaking to man—Annual Lessons, July 19, 1942.
   A. These early Genesis chapters cover many years.
      1. Small amount of events could be told, but what we need to know is revealed.
      2. No idea how many children Adam and Eve had.
      3. Of necessity brother and sister married each other.
      4. To show how great was the population sometime after the Abel episode, Cain built a city and that takes a lot of people.

Gen. 4:16-17 "Cain went out from the presence of the Lord."

5. But let’s go to the story at hand.
   B. We tell the story to emphasize the importance of God authorized worship.
      1. We are not left to our own desire.
2. We are to offer him what he asks for.

III. Cain and Abel
   A. Are they the first children born?
      Don't know.
   B. Were they twins as Adam Clark says?
      Don't know.
   C. Were they children in this event?
      No, many years passed.
   D. Were both established in their occupations? Yes.
      1. Abel kept sheep.
      2. Cain tilled ground.
      3. Life rather simple and spacious.
   E. "In the process of time" they bring gifts to God.
      1. Who told them what to do?
      2. It was not following Adam as there is no record of their dad doing such.
      3. Yet at same time it seems they both brought sacrifices.
         a) Surely something coordinated this.
         b) Surely they had some instructions.
         c) We have yet to find any tribe on earth that does not have some expressed feeling that there is a hereafter.
d) Did their worship idea come from human reasoning?
e) Was it a movement by an altruistic spirit?
f) If God had said nothing why would he reject one and accept the other?
g) Was pleasing him a wild guess?
h) Scripture says it was by faith and faith comes by hearing the Word of God.
"Without faith it is impossible to please." (Heb. 11:5-6)
i) It is not enough to believe in God, we must do what he says.
j) To do what we please, like, or receive joy is not the criteria for worship.
k) It's God's way--not my way as we do all, not part of what God says. It's more than sincerely.

4. So they made their offerings (V.3-5) - read this.

F. Reactions to worship experience.
V.5-7 (Read)
1. Cain disappointed.
2. God told him how to worship correctly.
3. Lessers Translation: "If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted?" (cont'd)
3. (cont'd)
If thou doest not well sin both at the door; and unto thee is its desire, but thou canst rule over it."

4. Every way of man is clean in his own eyes.

5. Contrast with.

Acts 10:35 "But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him."

6. It's God's way, not mine, as we seek to adore him.

I Jn. 3:12 "Not as Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother.
And wherefore slew he him?
Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous."

7. We are not asked to be spokesmen for God but servants. (Bond)

G. Rest of the story.
1. Cain killed Abel.

I like to use the illustration of an experiment conducted by Jean Henri Fabre, the great French entomologist. He took a number of processionary caterpillars—so named because they always marched in military-like formation—and lined them around the inner edge of a flowerpot until they formed a complete, unending circle. For three days he monitored them as they marched around and around the edge of the flower pot, never once breaking the circle. At the end of the third day, he placed several pine needles—the food of processionary caterpillars—in the center of the pot. For four more days and nights the caterpillars marched in a circle.
Eventually they dropped dead from starvation and exhaustion.
They had been walking less than six inches from food, and yet one by one, they starved to death. For seven days and nights they marched, and never once did any of them leave the circle to eat.

Chasing Fads or Cultivating the Soul?

"We read to know that we are not alone." That’s what a student once said to C.S. Lewis. If you’ve seen Anthony Hopkins’ performance in “Shadowlands,” you may recall that line. It once again reminds me of the legitimate and powerful role books and reading can play in life. I don’t know if there is a connection between the number of books published each day in the United States and the acute loneliness that seems to permeate our contemporary culture. I do know that on an average day in the United States 105,108,286 Americans read a newspaper. Out of that vast number 27,000,000 read their horoscope; 52,000,000 read obituaries; 70,000,000 read “Dear Abby”; 79,250,000 read the comics; 81,500,000 read the editorials; and 86,202,000 read the sports page.

Did you know that 124 new book titles are published each day? I have no idea how many people access the Net to read and discover information they believe they must have for school, job, or home. Many of us digest our daily portion of information and in our more honest moments acknowledge an acute ache in the pit of our soul. Christian bookstores alone sell 34,932 Bibles every day! Maybe the connection between reading and loneliness is not a valid one. I’ll let you decide.

You might recall Mother Teresa’s visit to this country several years ago. She reminded all of us who would listen that she had witnessed poverty all over the world, but she had never seen the poverty of the soul that she discovered in this country. She found us starving to death for love and real community. It does not enter the mind of most of us that a good book, one centered on helping us cultivate a strong inner life, could possibly help us to remember that we are not alone.

Paul and His Books

This relationship between reading and loneliness got me thinking about the apostle Paul and the circumstances in which he found himself. You may recall his first letter to Timothy. Paul had reminded the young preacher about how to have a healthy congregation without losing his own soul. Paul had encouraged Timothy to confront godless teaching, seek godly character, model godly servant leadership, develop godly leaders, practice godly stewardship, and evangelize, edify, worship, and pray to the glory of God!

Timothy found himself smack dab in the middle of Ephesus with its smorgasbord of religious options. Nero was on the Roman throne and decadence seemed to be winning hands down. In Paul’s second and final letter to his young associate, the apostle underscored the importance of being a healthy leader. This global Christian found himself deserted, tired, and imprisoned. Demas had abandoned Paul, embraced the world, struck out on his own, apparently chasing fads (2 Timothy 4:10).

Joseph Conrad had a low opinion of doctors. But late in life he finally found one to his liking, and over a period of months, consulted him several times.

"You're sure he's the right one for you?" a friend asked.

"Yes, I've had a good luck with him. He examines me, and prescribes a medicine. I don't take it and I get well.

Richard Wagner put himself in the mood for composing his operas.

A minister was asked to preach one Sunday at a church that had a reputation for being particularly tight-fisted when it came to financially supporting their church. After the sermon, he passed his hat for the offering. It came back empty. Just to make sure, he tipped it upside down and shook it, but nothing dropped out.

"Now let us give thanks," he said to the curious congregation. They wondered what he could possibly give thanks about.

"I thank Thee, Lord," prayed the pastor, "That I got my hat back!"

Sometimes it seems that there is nothing we could possibly give thanks for. We feel like Simon Soggs in W. F. Croffut's poem Give Thanks for What?. Simon Soggs lists all the adversities and problems of the past year. Way down a long list he asks:

"Give thanks?

Jest look at what a fix we're in! The country's rushin' to the dogs At racehorse speed!" said Simon Soggs, "Rotten all through — in every state —

Why, if we don't repudiate, We'll hev to build, fer big and small,

A poor-house that'll hold us all . . . Give thanks? How mad it makes me feel.

— Bits and Pieces

Misery loves company, but happiness throws more parties.

There are some who never pray before meals except at Thanksgiving. Even then the lot usually falls to children who still think “God is great, God is good . . .” is a pretty nifty turn of phrase. And then there are those at the other extreme, who pray not only before every meal, but before popcorn or a candy bar; in short, prior to any oral ingestion of an edible substance, with the possible exception of liverwurst. Let’s face it: it’s hard to be genuinely thankful for liverwurst.

I’ve also witnessed variety in prayer length. I’ve heard four word prayers and prayers that were so long the food had to be reheated.

I guess, like most people, I fall somewhere between the extremes. On the one hand, I realize that praying is important. But I just can’t bring myself to go to God before sitting down to a Pop-Tart, especially at 6 a.m. when there is nobody around to appreciate my spirituality. So where do I draw the line?

To pray or not pray? And how to pray? Should I pray as long over a hot dog as I would over steak? Do I have to close my eyes if it’s just a peanut butter sandwich? Does God understand those hurried times when I pray while chewing? These are the issues I try to resolve each Thanksgiving. Now that I have considered it, perhaps it’s more important just to be genuinely thankful. Maybe even for liverwurst.

I. Noah! I've said the name and what first came to your mind?

A. The hero of the flood. Name means comfort or rest.
B. Perfect in his generation (Gen.6:19).
C. Father of Shem, Ham, Japheth.
D. Preacher of righteousness.

E. First (Gen.6:5) act after flood built altar and worshiped God.
   1. Received promise about seed and harvest time. Abraham born 292 year after flood--for 58 years a contemporary of Noah.
   2. Got sign of the covenant--rainbow.

F. Lived almost a century.
   1. Saw tower and dispersion of humanity.

G. Old man of 620 years (that alone creates interest in the person) through all the vicissitudes of life starts all over as a husbandman.
   1. Lit. "man of the ground" -- honorable occupation--not lazy or indifferent in old age.
   2. May have seen Seth, Enoch, Methuselah.
3. Worked—no old age leisure and depend on someone else—not expecting sons to take care of him, nor expecting God to do special care.

H. One blot—drank wine, got drunk.
   1. Even biggest fall.
   2. Can't imagine it happening to the noble man.
   3. Don't know how long this was after the flood.

II. Noah planted, drank, drunk.
A. Inspired historian with perfect impartiality tells the errors of its heroes.
   1. Best of men can fall.
   2. Must be kept dependent on God's grace and strength.
   3. All need the pardoning mercy of God.
   4. Only Jesus is perfect.
   5. Never know when temptation and carelessness can overcome one.
   6. Noah who was kept sober in drunken company is now drunken in sober company.

Luke 21:34

B. Planted a vineyard, drank wine, was drunken—note rapidity.
   1. First mention in Bible of wine.
2. To drink and become drunk is sin.
3. Ignorant? Didn't know wine would make you drunk.
5. Wine has not ceased to be a mocker—it still deceives—no one knows he can resist it—just stay from it.
6. Momentarily we will find a man who for centuries has walked with God now lying naked on the floor of his tent in a drunken stupor.
7. Neither age nor experience can make one immune to the evil of this assault.

Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. Watch and pray ye enter not into temptation.

C. Feel the word--DRUNKEN
1. Bible tells it like it is.
2. Drunkenness leads to further shame.
3. It leads to sensuality.

Rom. 13:13 — "Let us walk honestly as in the day . . .

1 Cor. 5:11 — "Drunkard with such a man . . .

1 Cor. 6:10 — "Drunkards--not inherit kingdom . . .

4. Exposes our infirmities and secrets.
D. Uncovered in tent—Ham saw and told.
   1. He sins against his daddy.
   2. Impropriety and gossip.
   3. Grandson Canaan does worse though not told that.
   4. Do we delight in the fall of others?
   5. Did he tell brothers with the delight of what he saw? Fill him with joy his dad fell?
   6. Disregarded that this man was perfect in his generation, walked with God, pure in life and piety, was a constant companion of God and walked in harmony with his purpose, ever submits to God's will.
   7. What was the sexual offense we are not told?
   8. Flagrant filial irreverence, no son has the right.
   9. The way man regards the sins of others is a touchstone of character.
  10. Do we see drunkenness as a joke, a jest and enjoy its scene?
  11. It's described as "looking on" yet when Noah awoke he knew something had been done to him—cursed Canaan.
  12. Instead of hiding the shame he goes and tells it.
E. Acts of Shem and Japheth

1. It's a well-established fact that children in the same family can be distinguished by widely different dispositions.

2. One child—son of mercy; another—of the devil.

3. Unexpected events percolate these differences.

4. Shem and Japheth use pious care to cover their father's nakedness.

5. They throw a mantle of love over his faults.

1 Peter 4:8 - "Charity covers a multitude of sins."

6. We need to protect parents and superiors.

7. God blesses those who honor parents.

8. They did not treat the matter lightly.

9. They treated him as one who had fallen and who by God's grace could be restored.

1 Peter 4:8 - "Charity covers a multitude of sins."

10. Took garment, laid it on both their shoulders, went backward, covered the nakedness of their father.
11. Honored their dad and preserved their own modesty.

12. There is a veil of modesty God designs for everyone--be wrapt in it and jealously guard it.

13. Only a man's wife should see her husband's nakedness.

Lev. 18:6-7  The Read, Nakedness of thy father, mother, shall it not uncover, she is thy mother not uncover.

F. Noah awoke and knew someone had mistreated him.
1. Not told what was done nor how he knew it.
2. But it resulted in curse of Canaan.

III. What lessons do we learn?

A. See typed work. the best then, drink unto
B. Also 1 Cor. 10:12 +

1 Cor. 10:12 +

Eph. 5:18 Re not drunk wine, but the Spirit

1. Hardly a sin to which intoxication does not lead.
2. Drink unfolds our weaknesses and unveils our secrets.

Heb. 2:15-16

3. Action of a father often determines fate of his descendents.

C. Nothing more said of Noah until he died 350 years after the flood - 950 years old.
D. (F. B. Meyer)
1. How weak are the best of men?
2. Love of strong drink will drag a preacher of righteousness into the dust.
3. If our brethren sin, don't parade their faults but cover with mantle of divine love.
4. Abhor sin but restore one in spirit of meekness remembering we may be tempted (Gal. 6:1-4).

E. Lessons from this narrative are many:
1. Temptation and sin are of the greatest danger immediately following victory.
2. Satan assaults the soul with the most vigorous efforts both at the beginning of life (or a career), and at the end of it. Either way, if one falls, the shadow lengthens to lie over the whole life.
3. Idle gossip is exceedingly sin and dangerous.
4. Countless generations may suffer as the result of a single individual's sickness. Cain and Canaan both appear in these early chapters as examples of this.
5. It is not the big temptations alone that cause men to fail, but the little ones as well. Noah could withstand the scorn of the whole world, but he could not resist the over-indulgence of his appetite.
6. Even the greatest and best of men are no substitute for Christ, who alone is the Perfect One and the Saviour of all men.

F. Past work does not furnish power for future victory.

Franklin, KY - 6/15/03
Charles Coburn, the actor, enjoyed telling the following as his favorite story: As a boy I fell in love with the theater and worked to earn money so I could see plays pretty often. Knowing this my father warned, "One thing, son: Don't go to burlesque houses." "Why not, Father?" I asked. "You might see something you shouldn't" he replied. That was all I needed. The next time I earned money I went to a burlesque show. Father was right. I saw something I shouldn't have seen—my father.—American Opinion, 7-8-72.
Studies conducted by Josh McDowell and Norm Wakefield have shown that in many cases it is the father who will have the greatest impact on their future and their view of themselves. In their book "The Dad Difference," they explain that children often give greater significance to a relationship with their father because he is usually unavailable to them during the day. After conducting numerous surveys, they found that the five most important factors in the formation of a child's self-image are (1) a close relationship with the father, (2) spending a lot of time with the father, (3) spending a lot of time with the... mother, (4) feeling secure and loved at home and (5) a grade average of A or B.

I once read about two young boys who were raised in the home of an alcoholic father. As young men, they each went their own way.

Years later, a psychologist who was analyzing what drunkenness does to children in the home searched out these two men. One had turned out to be like his father, a hopeless alcoholic. The other had turned out to be a teetotaler. The counselor asked the first man, "Why did you become an alcoholic?" And the second, "Why did you become a teetotaler?" And they both gave the same answer. "What else could you expect when you had a father like mine?"

Early Restoration Leaders

David Lipscomb: Elder and Editor
By Sylvia Root tester

David Lipscomb's career began before the Civil War and ended in the twentieth century. Because he lived so long, and because he was a man of extraordinary conviction, he had a profound influence upon the restoration movement.

Lipscomb was born on January 21, 1831, in Franklin County, Tennessee. He was a second-generation Disciple. His father had begun reading Campbell's Christian Baptist and had shown it to his own brothers. Together they worked in their Baptist church, trying to get the congregation to return to the New Testament plan, until the congregation kicked them out. Then they joined a church that was part of the Barton Stone movement.

Lipscomb grew up in a small congregation for which his father often preached. His father's way of preaching was simple; he read from the Bible and then talked about what he had read. It was a method Lipscomb approved of highly and later adopted as his own.

Schooling was scarce in Franklin County. Lipscomb spent much of his time working on the farm alongside the slaves his father owned. Now and then when there was opportunity, he and his brother would go to school awhile.

A Guiding Principle
When David was thirteen, his father sent him and his brother to live with their grandfather for a year so they could go to school. The school was run by Baptists and stressed the memorization of Scripture. In that year David memorized the Gospels and Acts.

David and William, his brother, returned to help their father. Their taste for schooling, though, had been whetted. So on January 21, 1846, when David was fifteen, he and William enrolled in Franklin College, near Nashville. Franklin College was run by Tolbert Fanning, a well-known leader in the restoration movement. The school was then in its second year.

Lipscomb spent about four years there, completing his work by July of 1849. He wasn't the best of students. His brother William was far better in the classroom. In later years Lipscomb told of a time when he fell asleep in class. He also told of the last whipping he ever received—from Fanning, for stealing a kiss from a Baptist lass.

While Lipscomb was in college, a basic principle crystallized in his mind. Stated simply, Lipscomb developed a profound belief that the only important thing in his life was to follow God's laws. All he did, from this time on, arose from this belief.

He had no wish to be a preacher. When he left college, he wanted to be a farmer and to do what he could to advance Christ's church. After he began preaching, people urged him to let the elders ordain him as an evangelist, but he refused. His preaching might be part of his work as a Christian, but he did not wish to be thought of as a preacher not confined to preaching alone. Later he did accept the position of elder. All of his work, he felt, was appropriate work for an elder.

For a while Lipscomb worked as a supervisor on a plantation. Later he worked on a railroad line. Then he came back to Nashville, and after a time, he bought a farm.

The Civil War was looming. War fever ran high. Lipscomb thought about events and about the Christian's relationship to civil government. He came to the conclusion that the Christian's duty was to God and God's laws first, that civil governments were not of God's making and, indeed, had been formed in violation of God's overseership. He decided he would obey whatever government was in power if he could, but would not disobey God to obey the government. He followed this course openly throughout the havoc that followed.

As a result, the Confederates thought him a traitor, for he refused to join their cause. Moreover, he tried to persuade others to join him in this refusal. Soon the Union army captured Nashville, the federal officials confiscated Franklin College, where Lipscomb's brother was teaching, and made it into a hospital. Now the Union leaders thought Lipscomb was a Confederate sympathizer, because he refused to join the Union cause. Lipscomb's biographer said, "Amid these chaotic events David Lipscomb moved with as little perturbation as possible."

He even got married. On July 26, 1862, he and Margaret Zellner were wed. Two years later, in June, a baby son was born to them, but the boy died the next spring. Here is the stark account of the burial of their son:

They discussed where they should bury him, and decided that due to the uncertainty of their possessions near Nashville, they should bury him in the Zellner family lot in Maury County. Margaret instructed on old Negro man to cut down a cedar tree and dress some pieces for the coffin. A neighbor lady helped her make a heavy cotton gown for the little corpse. The baby had died early in the night, and by morn in the morning, they had loaded them buggy with a few possessions, placed the coffin in their laps, and were riding through Nashville toward Maury County. They were dazed getting through the picket lines but reached Franklin... that night and stayed with friends. The next day, they arrived at Henry Zeller's home and buried the infant. Margaret found it hard to comfort her husband. But he finally said with grim resolution, "I'll just have to work hard and forget."

David Lipscomb did work hard. He did everything he could to help churches and people during this time.

Finally the war was over. Lipscomb's biographer wrote, "A picture of desolation greeted him everywhere he looked. Farms had been burned, and poverty, like a grim, ghastly monster, stalked the land. These poor people would have to be fed and clothed."

A Revival Journal
Before the war Tolbert Fanning had started a journal, the Gospel Advocate, which he and William Lipscomb edited. They ceased publication when the war began, for the mails were stopped and there was no other way to get the journal to readers.

Now, with the war over, it was time to revive the journal. But Tolbert Fanning had all he could do to get his beloved Franklin College going again. (He did begin again, but fire wiped the school out. Later Fanning began and ran Hope Institute, a school for girls.) William Lipscomb was too ill to even consider editing the journal. David Lipscomb thought J. W. McGarvey would make a good editor, but McGarvey was not interested. Reviving the journal was very important to Lipscomb, so he did it.

The Gospel Advocate resumed publication in January of 1866, with Tolbert Fanning and David Lipscomb listed as its editors. It soon became clear that Fanning had turned most of the work and all of the editorial direction over to Lipscomb.

Through the postwar years, Lipscomb used the Gospel Advocate to raise money to help people in the destitute South. Lipscomb's biographer wrote:

Lipscomb possessed an insatiable desire to help the stressed people of the South. Before the crisis was over he had raised a hundred thousand dollars for the poor. Upon receiving money he would send it on to the elders of a local church, to be dispersed among their needy. His rule was to help the needy first so he could go and preach the gospel. Then he would assist the widows and orphans and finally help the people of the world.

Lipscomb thought this work of helping the needy in the South would be over in a year or two, but he was wrong. A drought hit the South, making conditions even worse for poor people. Then in 1869 a cholera epidemic struck Nashville. Through all this time, Lipscomb solicited funds through the paper, traveled extensively asking churches in the brotherhood for help, and distributed the funds.

Even his enemies—and he had several—were forced to express their praise for him.

In the journal Lipscomb spent much time discussing the Christian's relationship to civil governments. His views on the subject were controversial, and not many people in the brotherhood agreed with him. He felt that Christians simply should not be involved; he even felt they should not vote.
He also became deeply embroiled in discussing almost every issue that was troubling the brotherhood. He was against missionary societies, feeling that they were an organization outside the church and in competition with the church. He was against using musical instruments in worship services, feeling that if Christ had wanted His followers to use them, New Testament congregations would have used them.

A Blunt but Concerned Leader
Lipscomb's way of speaking and writing was blunt and plain. People often thought him stubborn and irascible. Some of his opponents disliked him intensely. Yet Isaac Estes, who seldom agreed with Lipscomb on issues, said:

"We like Brother Lipscomb for one thing—his entire frankness. There is nothing of the assassin in his warfare—no sulking about the pathway of his opponent with cowardly insinuations, ready to hurl them murderously at the reputation of an unsuspecting and unarmed antagonist. He comes into the field armed cap-a-pie, publishes his cause of quarrel, throws down the gauntlet, and waits, in true knightly posture, for an honorable tilt. He may, perhaps, be charged with an excess of frankness. We are inclined to think that ill health and a somewhat forlorn temperament give an undue sobriety to many of his editorials. But we always know where to find him; and if we must have a controversy, we prefer to deal with an open and honorable disputant.

Most of the time, Lipscomb refused to attack others personally. He attacked beliefs and practices, but not people. When one of his editors got embroiled in a fierce debate with an editor of another paper and the attacks turned personal, Lipscomb simply refused to print the articles.

The years passed, and the divisions in the brotherhood became more pronounced. Those who were against musical instruments refused to worship with those who used them. Lipscomb sometimes preached in a church that had an organ, if the congregation agreed not to use the organ while he was there. Other people refused even that amount of fellowship. Lipscomb viewed the division with sadness, but felt it was inevitable.

After Tolbert Fanning died, his widow decided to start an orphans' home and school. This had always been a dream of Fanning's, and his widow deeded her

Claiming God’s Promises by Alger Hitch

“Every promise in the Book is mine,” says an old song. “No,” says Hitch, “not literally every promise.” He summons us to distinguish the promises meant for us from those that are not. Then he pens a stirring discussion of some of the most precious promises: those of forgiveness, God’s presence, security, healing, joy, and eight other things we long for.

A Difficult Time

More difficulties arose in the brotherhood. Some ministers began preaching against the virgin birth and bodily resurrection of Jesus. Lipscomb attacked these views strongly in the pages of the Gospel Advocate.

The nineteenth century was almost over. In the Gospel Advocate, Lipscomb wrote:

This number of the Gospel Advocate is the last one for the century, and closes thirty-five years of work I have given to the Advocate.

I feel very sensitively the infirmities of age creeping over me, and the incurable disease, old age, will soon finish its work.... I have tried through three score years and ten to keep a conscience void of offense toward God and man.... I have tried to do what would please them.... I have tried to get them to be pleased with that which would build them up, do them good, and fit them for the service of God forever.

In 1902, the church at Newbern, Tennessee, went to court over the question of whether the pro-organ or anti-organ people should retain the church building. Anti-organ elders had come earlier to talk to Lipscomb, who advised them to give up the building, if necessary, to avoid going to court. He told them it was better to suffer wrong than to do wrong. They went ahead against his advice.

Lipscomb was called as a witness. The court battle dragged out over several years and was a sore tribulation to Lipscomb, who was now past seventy. Not until 1905 was a decision handed down, in favor of the pro-organ people.

During this time Lipscomb’s articles were seen less and less in the Gospel Advocate. Lipscomb’s health was getting worse. By 1904 his eyesight was nearly gone and his hearing was failing. He continued, though, to preach now and then and to write on a fairly regular basis. Lipscomb died in 1917, shortly before America’s entry into World War I.

Earlier, an editor of the Gospel Advocate had written a short biographical sketch of Lipscomb. Lipscomb read it and was dissatisfied. He felt it was too complimentary and left out his failures. He mentioned this to the author, who answered, “You needn’t worry. Your enemies will take care of that.”

Lipscomb thought a moment and said, “Possibly things may be adjusted in that way.”

Even his enemies, though, paid tribute at his death. For, as one admirer wrote, David Lipscomb saw both the “faults in his friends and the virtues in his foes.”

I was reared in a home with a mother and father who really loved each other, so I know what love is. I have seen both a son and a daughter safely through the trials of their tempestuous teens, so I know what satisfaction is. I have had by my side for 25 years the gentlest, kindest, most considerate human being I have ever known, so I know what happiness is. I have prayed. And my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is. And because I have known all these things, I know what wealth is.

HOW ALEXANDER CAMPBELL WAS REARED

"It was their rule that every member should memorize, during each day, some portion of the Bible, to be recited at evening worship. Long passages were often thus recited, but if only a single verse was correctly repeated by the small children, it was received with encouraging approbation. Attention was usually called to the important facts or truths presented in each recitation, questions were asked in regard to them, and appropriate remarks briefly offered. Finally, the Scriptures repeated during the week were again rehearsed on the evening of the Lord's Day.

"This sacred day also was faithfully observed. Every member of the household was expected to go to meeting, and it was understood that each one was to give, upon returning home, an account not only of the text, but of the discourse itself, embracing its leading points. This was designed to secure, on the part of the young especially, a proper attention to the services of public worship, so that the church might not be a place for the observance of cold and lifeless forms, but in reality a house of prayer and of true religious edification...

"[Alexander Campbell]... long after the death of his mother, paid to her memory the following tribute..." 'Having a peculiarly ready and retentive memory, she treasured up the Scriptures in early life, and could quote and apply them with great fluency and pertinency from childhood to old age. She, indeed, also possessed a mental independence which I have rarely seen equaled, and certainly never surpassed, by any woman of my acquaintance. Greatly devoted to her children, and especially to their proper training for public usefulness, and for their own individual and social enjoyment, she was indefatigable in her labors of love, and in her attention to their physical, intellectual, moral and religious training and development...

"To my mother, as well as to my father, I am indebted to for having memorized in early life almost all the writings of King Solomon--his Proverbs, his Ecclesiastes--and many of the Psalms of his father David. They have not only been written on the tablet of my memory, but incorporated with my modes of thinking and speaking.'"

There are but two divine institutions known to man. One of them is the home and the other is that church about which so much is said in the New Testament. It also is a family, in many respects based upon similarities and likenesses of the earthly family. God is the Father thereof. Jesus Christ is represented here on earth as the bridegroom, and all Christians everywhere constitute the bride. I would not be misunderstood, and I would love to get this matter clearly fixed in your mind that every man and every woman who has believed and obeyed the gospel is a member of God's family, God's church, by virtue of the fact of the new birth.

Now, many of those, perhaps thus born again have, in addition to and without the slightest authority on earth from Jehovah, become identified with other institutions, and in that act I verily believe they have gone farther than God ever intended. Now, the difference between that class of people and myself is this: I am trying to get them to leave off that for which there is no authority and just stay where they were the very minute they became God's children, feeling absolutely certain that as long as we are governed by the Bible, that is sufficient. Other matters have but a destructive influence by their divisive nature and their partisan spirit.

I do not claim, and have never so done, that those who have taken no stand with denominations are the only Christians upon earth; but here is the contention: Having simply believed and obeyed the gospel, we propose to be Christian only. Now, there is a wonderful difference between saying that we claim to be Christian only and that we claim to be the only Christians.

The Bible clearly predicts that the Lord's people, some of them, will be engaged in a state of confusion; and the Lord bids his people to come out of that state and just stand, if you please, as humble Christians only."---N. B. Hardeman, Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons, Vol. 2, page 252-253.
I. HOW SATAN ENTERS THE HOME
   A. Makes a supreme effort to master one--Eve.
   B. With this one he finds greatest weakness and concentrates his efforts there.
      1. It may be secret desire to eat the forbidden fruit--adultery.
      2. Tempers, liquor, gambling, vanity, pride, selfishness.
      3. Money, power, popularity.
   C. He gently prys loose the moral restraints.
   D. He raises questions about the right of God to lay down rules.
   E. He appeals to the desire to be free and do as one pleases.
Home, sweet . . . II. 5b.

A modern woman confronted the zealous Realtor who was trying to sell a home to her. "A home!" she snapped. "Why do I need a home? I was born in a hospital, educated in a college, courted in an automobile, and married in a church. I live out of paper bags from fast food places, spend my mornings on the golf course and my afternoons and evenings in front of the television. And when I die I intend to be buried at the mortuary. All I need is a garage.

Thomas S. Haggai quoted in IGA Grocergram
In their hit song “Homesick” the rock group Soul Asylum scream, “I’m homesick for the home I’ve never had.” Most of us over 30 probably can’t understand their words, but we need to hear what they are saying.

In this age of throw-away marriages and transferable children, a growing host of angry voices are joining in this tragic chorus, grieving for the family relationships and the normal home experiences they have been denied. We will likely deal with their grief and anger in America’s social patterns for decades to come.

Recently a host of popular religious leaders have raised their voices to decry the absenteeism of fathers in so many American homes. Their concerns are on target, of course, but I think we’re overlooking something very obvious.

With so many fathers going AWOL, the child-raising duties in America are being borne valiantly by a growing army of single mothers. Former education secretary William Bennett correctly observes that “for 9 out of 10 children in single-parent homes, the father is the one who isn’t there.” Mama is, and she’s bearing the load.

“Noah loaded the Ark with two horses, two cows, two sheep, and two of every kind of animal he could find,” one first-grade Sunday school teacher told his spellbound class. When he asked them what they had learned from the story, one little fellow volunteered, “You’ve got to be married to be saved.” Maybe so on the Ark, but not in America today.

In his fine little book Success Is a Moving Target, Robert Raines points out a modern paradox.

“Men in our society are not allowed to fail in career but are allowed to fail in personal relationships,” he notes, “while women are allowed to fail in career but not allowed to fail personally as mother and wife.”

I’d never really thought about it that way, but Raines may be right. This may explain at least in part why so many lonely ladies are struggling to the limits of their ability to house and feed and nurture their offspring with little or no help from the fathers who sired them.

Let’s pay special tribute to this growing band of modern heroes, these mothers who against all odds are doing their best single-handedly to raise sons and daughters in a difficult world.
The current survey, however, indicates that 75 percent of parents say the home is the most important, 16 percent name the church, and 3 percent say the school. The prevailing opinion among all groups and faiths and in all regions of the country is that the home is the key factor in the religious and spiritual development of children.

SURVEY SAYS...

You might remember the television game show, “Family Feud.” The object of the show was for the families to match their answers to answers given by the studio audience. The family whose answers were most often matched by the studio audience was the winner. After the family would answer, the host, Richard Dawson, had a famous line. He would very dramatically say, “survey says....” and then the answer would be revealed.

Recently, Abilene Christian University surveyed 530 teens, ages 11-19, who are members of the church of Christ south, west, midwest, and east regions of The United States. Survey says.... and what it does say should be disturbing to people of the faith.

1. 39% believe that adultery is the only biblical reason for divorce.
2. 22% believe that Christians should only marry Christians.
3. 71% said they were interested in the church.
4. 92% believe Satan is real.
5. 79% believe God will punish the wicked in hell.
6. 65% believe that church membership does not matter as long as you love God.
7. 81% believe that God guided the authors of the Bible as they wrote.
8. 80% believe that salvation comes by faith and baptism.
9. 70% believe that Christians should partake of the Lord’s Supper on the first day of the week.
10. 22% believe women should never take a leadership role in worship.
11. 14% believe that one must be an active member of the church to go to heaven.
12. 11% believe that it is wrong for girls to lead youth group devotionals and songs.
13. 10% believe that musical instruments in worship is wrong.
14. 81% of those polled, who said they did not drink alcoholic beverages, said they were virgins.
15. 37% of those polled, who said they drank alcoholic beverages, said they were virgins.
16. 85% polled said they were virgins.

ARK
I'm an athlete, I'm a human being. You can see the Rawlings stamp. It's a 70. KB: Do you dabble in politics or have any opinions on all that?

In open heart, too, that allowed you to play the game. There's been so much work on hitting a baseball. Obviously, he gave me the great gift of being born who don't have a father. It's tough for me, especially with most people is they don't want to stand up to the responsibilities of being a parent. I went through a divorce, and divorce isn't good. But thank God I have a great ex-wife and we've made things work out for the better of the children. I've had people come up to me, professional people, and say, "You know what? My wife and I are going through a divorce, and divorce is tough for them to say "My parents are heroes" because there aren't parents around. Another thing is that people don't want to stand up to the responsibilities of being a parent. I went through a divorce, and divorce isn't easy, but thank God I have a great ex-wife and we've made things work out for the better of the children. I've had people come up to me, professional people, and say, "You know what? My wife and I are going through a divorce and we read what you said, and we're working on it." It's made them understand that two grown human beings — OK, the hardest thing in the world today is to have a relationship with the opposite sex.

Q: Where did that concern come from in you? I know you donate money anonymously to groups that help kids: Are there experiences in your childhood that you are confronting or dealing with by manifesting your love for children and your concern?

No, it is just seeing how messed up children are today. I have been lucky enough to be put in this position to have a slight say and try to help people. That's where the man upstairs puts you in situations to do something. The way children are being raised today is not good.

To see that they are not interested in school, that they are getting into drugs, getting into violence, the thought of kids bringing guns to school and shooting people — there's a reason that happens. You have to get back to their homes.

Q: Cecil Fielder said sometimes when he's at the plate the ball looks as big as a watermelon, and other times it looks smaller than a golf ball. Talk about that moment of sight.

To me, the ball looks clearer. You can see [National League president] Leonard Coleman's name on it. You can see the Rawlings stamp. You can see the dot on the slider; you can see the tumbler of a split-finger fastball. It goes with really studying that pitcher and being totally mentally locked in.

Q: How did you handle the pressures?

I am realistic about things. I realize the season is a very long season.
1. Television. Nothing has gobbled up more time than the one-eyed monster that resides in most living rooms around the country.

2. Newspapers and magazines. I enjoy my afternoon reading as much as the next person, but if my children feel left out, my reading time must go.

3. Unnecessary housework. An old professor used to refute the saying "If it's worth doing, it's worth doing right." He would reply, "I can think of a lot of things worth doing that are not worth doing right - like ironing and..."
folding bedsheets." We all want to keep a clean house, but we don't need to let it become an obsession. Time with our children is more important.

4. Personal hobbies. An enjoyable hobby can be good for us, but not if we're constantly using it to get away from the wife and kids. Let's use hobbies to get our kids involved with the family, not to escape.

5. Catching up on office work. "Wait a minute - that's not a waste of time!" you might say. But it certainly does take time that could be spent with your kids. We all have to use our own time to catch up on occasion, but we should see that it remains the exception rather than the rule.
BUNGALOW

"I can't understand why you call your place a bungalow," said Smith to his neighbor.

"Well, if it isn't a bungalow, what is it?" said the neighbor. "The job was a bungle, and I still owe on it."

Clean Sweep

I AM NOT the world's best housekeeper. Clean but cluttered describes my usual state of affairs and I do tolerate a little bit of dust. One day, while my grandson and a friend were in my house, I overheard them talking.

"We don't have anything like this at our house," the friend remarked as he traced pictures in the dust.

"It's okay to write your name," said my grandson. "But you're not supposed to write the date."

Time for a Change — A survey sponsored by Spiegel, Inc. found that one out of every five Americans rearrange their furniture every single month. The most common reason found for this action is boredom.

In our survey, parents of children under 18 years old who live in the same household were asked whether or not they had done the following, in the previous seven days, with their children: said grace at meals, attended church services, attended other church-related activities, read the bible together, talked about God and religion with their children, watched or listened to religious programs on TV or radio with their children. Here are the findings:

-- 42 percent of parents said grace before meals with their children
-- 38 percent attended church services with their children
-- 28 percent attended church-related activities with their children

OVER .......
One Minute Please

By DR. TOM HAGGAI

Remember, most failures are not the result of someone lacking knowledge as much as having a bad attitude. It is sad that we have poor students, a poor home, a poor sense of worth, because of parents lacking pride and failing to be good examples. There are parents who can and will be effective models for their children.

There are those who can but will not. They live for their own excitement and satisfaction. Doing so, they mentally abandon their children. Then there are those parents I respect and pull for. It appears life has dealt them some tough blows. They cannot do what they would for their children, but they seem to be willing to die trying. They/home incubates what our society will become.
Unfortunately, some of the most sincere people can rear the most profound sexual deviates. The homosexual, for example, has been found to have had two prime influences: a domineering, overly possessive and aggressive mother, and/or a detached, hostile, passive father. The combination is lethal. Mark it well—a clear reversal of the biblical roles produces perversion. One study involving 1,800 homosexuals strongly concludes, "A constructive, supportive, warm relation with a father precludes the possibility of a homosexual son." Homosexuals are usually not the product of a strengthening, undergirding home.

2. Children should be exposed to parents deeply in love with each other and unashamed to demonstrate that love in the presence of their children.
SO LONG AS THERE ARE HOMES

So long as there are homes to which men turn
At the close of day,
So long as there are homes where children are,
Where women stay,
If love and loyalty and faith be found
Across these sills,
A stricken nation can recover from
Its grave ills.

So long as there are homes where fires burn
And there is bread,
So long as there are homes where lamps are lit
And prayers are said,
Although a people falter through the dark
And nations grope,
With God Himself back of these little homes,
We still can hope.

THE MOUNTAIN, THE MAN, THE MASTER
Genesis 22
I. Some places loom with great importance:
   A. Moriah
   B. Here meet the Man, the Moment, and the Master.
   C. May I tell you the very familiar Gen. 22 story.
II. Came to Pass - After These Things
   A. Sunset years for Abraham.
   B. Old man has just endured much, and now more?
      1. Waited fulfillment of promise.
      2. Ishmael sent away with all that heartache.
      3. All promises for a son failed - finally Isaac.
      4. All future based on him.
      5. Tranquil period - 6 promises made earlier - now 7 & last appearance of God to him.
      6. Trials often come when we are weakest, unexpected.
      7. Always remember - there is more to come.

Abraham journeyed across trackless deserts, down valleys between Lebanon, under snowcapped Hermon to the strange land of Canaan -- famine struck -- nearly 100 and his wife 90, strange visitors came to the oaks of Mamre, the laughter followed and Isaac was born. Then suddenly Genesis 22.

How do you explain it? Are you losing your mind? "None of the ransomed ever knew how deep were the waters crossed."

Together Isaac and Abraham built an altar, Isaac had done so many times he knew what was to be done, he knew something was missing, Abraham could see the question coming. Isaac is no slow-wit, he could count -- daddy, fire, wood, knife and Isaac.

Isaac came close to watch smoke -- it could have been me is the idea. Look to skull-shaped Calvary, another father watched his "boy crawl up that hill, wood on his back shaped like a cross, he too laid down and nailed him there. There was no cry as the Lamb is dumb before his shearers. You know why? God could not save his son and save me at the same time. He died for me to live and to that cross we must all come running. What God asked of Abraham he gave of himself.

"The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). (This from "The Word Comes Alive" by Ward)
III: 20th Day.

Rom. 8:32 “If God be for us who can be against us?”

Rom. 3:23 “For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God.”

Rom. 6:23 “For the wages of sin is death.”

Phil. 2:6 “Who, being in the form of God, emptied himself.”

Iss. 53:6-8 “Surely he hath borne our griefs.”

Rom. 19:17 “And he bare the sin of many.”

Mark 10:45 “Whom they crucified.”

Rom. 8:32 “For we are more than conquerors.”

Heb. 9:28 “To put away sin.”

Isa. 53:11 “He shall see the travail of his soul.”

1. Those guilty of sin.
2. Punished by death.
3. And all who have done.

2 Thess. 1:7-9 “And to you who are troubled.”

Gal. 3:13 “Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the Law.”

DEATH OF A GREAT WOMAN
Genesis 23:1-2

I. Events take on importance because of:
   A. People Involved.
   B. Emotions Stirred.
   C. Irreversible activities.
   D. The firsts that occur.

II. Let's Look at the Firsts.
   A. We have the first and only age of a Bible woman that expires.
   B. We have the first record of Abraham crying: not over leaving Ur, not over Lot's capture, or Isaac's offering.
   C. First Biblical mention of grave--though men have been dying.
   D. First mention of metal as a medium of exchange.
   E. First time shekel is used in the Bible.

III. It is Sarah who precipitated all of this.
    So we study her.
    A. Example for all women.
       1 Peter 3:4-6
          1. Held up in Scripture--not the Virgin Mary.
       Isa. 51:2 "Look unto A. your father & S. that"
          2. Not known for glamour, flesh, though lovely.
    B. As are all, she was not perfect.
       1. Episode with Hagar.
       2. Laughed about Isaac's birth when she was 90.
    C. Yet Revered.
       1. Married more than 60 years.
2. Left Haran when 65.
3. So Scripture literally speaks of the lives (plural) of Sarah.
4. Sarai—the contentious one.
5. Sarah—the Princess.
Gen. 17:15-16 (READ)
6. Yet walked by favor & grace of God.
D. Lived a long time.
1. 127 years. Scripture promised
Heb. 11:11 "Through faith also S. herself"
2. Faithful to the end.
1 Pet. 3:6 "Even as S. obeyed A./calling him"
3. Not afraid of amazement of fear.
4. Ever devoted to her husband.
5. Isaac 37 at her death.
Ps. 91:16 "With long life will I satisfy"
E. As all must, she died at Kirjatharba.
1. Another name for Hebron.
2. Literally the town of Arba—he must have been a man of renown.
3. 22 miles south of Jerusalem.
4. Hebron the original name, supplanted by Kirjatharba but restored at the conquest.
Gen. 13:18 Plain of Mamre which is in Hebron.
5. Arba Hebrew for 4, thus City of Four.
6. Hebron = Alliance.
F. With death is demanded a disposing of the body.
IV. Death Brings Sorrow.
v-2 "And A. came to mourn for S. & to weep"
A. This verse introduces three vital thoughts.
B. Abraham came.
   1. Was he not at home when she died? -- he had many business interests that necessitated his absence.
   2. Or does it mean he came to tent where her body was?

C. Came to Mourn.
   1. Death may be a release but it is still a time of felt sadness.
   2. Out of respect & emotion he deliberately came to mourn.
   3. Is this not natural?
   4. Can we not sorrow without sinning?
   5. Time to weep -- time to mourn.
   6. Faith does not kill affection.
   7. Felt deep sorrow over lost love.
   8. Mourn refers to beating of the breast.

D. Came to Weep.
   1. Means to flow by drops -- a quieter and more moderate sorrow.
   2. Salvation does not dehumanize -- we cry!

Ps. 103:14 "For he knoweth our frame, he r."
I Thess. 4:13 "But I would not have you"

3. Crying is not improper -- Jesus did loudly.
4. Here is a parting not to be reversed in life. It's final!
5. So Abraham cries -- first time and only time so stated.
6. Strongest manhood has its roots in tender feelings. (Strahan)
7. Abraham not unmanned because of his tears.
8. 60-70 years of marriage—surely feels it.
10. When the body is sown it must be watered but not as those who have no hope. (Henry)

E. But Living Must Go On.

v-3 "And A. stood up from before his dead"
   1. To carry on is no insult to the dead.
   2. Stood, for sitting on the ground was oriental posture of mourning.

V. Now begins the business interaction to purchase a burial plot.
   A. Do you already have yours?—we all want to be buried on our own possession.
   B. Negotiations Begin.
      1. First Abraham describes self and needs.
      2. Stranger & Alien.

1 Chron. 29:15 "For we are strangers before thee"
Lev. 25:23
Ps. 39:12 "Hear my prayer, O Lord, & give"
Heb. 11:13 "These all died in faith"

3. Needs a burial plot.
   a) Land promised him and he has not a grave site!

Gen. 12:7 "Unto thy seed will I give this land"
Gen. 13:15 "All the land which thou seest"

7. He believed God would keep his promise.
8. 400 years later his folk got it.

F. Transaction
1. At gate, in open, detailed, repetitious.
2. 400 shekels very high but Abraham rich. Shekel a wt. not a coin.

Gen. 13:2
3. Gave Ephron the advantage—"what's a little gold between us?"

Jer. 32:9
4. Middle East seller sets high price, buyer lower & they negotiate—here Abraham just pays—meets emergency.

G. Interesting:
1. First possession in land is a grave!
2. Faith moving to duty puts a check on sorrow.
3. Rachel alone not buried here—Sarah, Abraham, Isaac, Rebekkah, Jacob, Leah.

DEALING WITH A CONTENTIOUS PERSON

Gen. 26:18-31

I. Perhaps everybody has had to deal with a contentious individual. (It could be that I am that person).
A. Isaac had that problem and won the day.
B. Let's study his method and use it.
C. Story is in Genesis 26 and has to do with a successful man digging wells.

II. Let's begin as does the Annual Lesson, August 16, 1942, with these facts.
A. We do not know how long this aggravation continued, but probably from 1830 BC until 1790 BC.
   1. Abraham was 100 when Isaac was born.
      Gen. 21:5
   2. Isaac was 40 when he married.
      Gen. 25:20
   3. Isaac was 60 when twins, Jacob and Esau were born.
      Gen. 25:24-26
      4. This story comes after their birth.
      B. The place it occurs is the valley of Gerar, Beersheba.
         1. Gerar near the southern boundary of Philistines.
2. Not far from Gaza or Beersheba.
3. It had a king of its own.
4. The well of Beersheba was dug by Abraham and with an oath with Abimelech was confirmed.
5. It became a town by that name and was Israel's most southern city.

C. People involved in our story are Isaac and his herdsmen; Abimelech, title given kings of Gerar (little Pharaoh for Egypt). Abimelech was a strong character (read verses 6-11).
Remember Philistine was that narrow strip along the Mediterranean Sea.
Isaac livid at Beersheba (Gen. 24:62, and 26:11).

D. An Event
   1. Famine came and Isaac went toward Egypt.
   2. The Lord stopped him at Gerar.
   Gen. 26:1-11
   3. Isaac became very prosperous.
   4. Philistines envied him and stopped his wells.
   5. Isaac began his moves.

III. Contention came (V. 18-21)
   A. He re-dug wells.
   B. He found one with "spring water."
      1. That would save labor.
      2. Flowed freely.
3. Others claimed his wells but he kept moving and digging new ones.
   a) Sitnah (enmity) - They took it.
   b) No retaliation, moved on, keep the peace.
   c) Earlier Esek (contention).
4. What about us?
   Rom. 12:17-19 "Render no man evil for evil."
   Rom. 14:19 "Let us follow after things which..."
   Phil. 4:5 "Let your forbearance be known."

C. Isaac moved far away.
   1. Dug another well and they strove not.
   2. Well Rehoboth (broad places or room).
   3. He said "For now Jehovah has made room."
   4. He loved places and furthermore he recognized he was a foreigner when in Gerar.
   5. He went to Beersheba thus moving away from strife.
   6. He stayed there.

Gen. 27:1
Gen. 28:19

7. Finally to Hebron when 180 years old.

Gen. 35:27-29
8. God said, "Fear not, I am with thee."
9. He kept the peace and God multiplied him.

D. He built an altar (V.25).
   1. Prayed
   2. Sacrificed
   3. These two elements go well with worship.
   4. He practiced no retaliation.
   5. Peace pact came (V.26-31).
      We have done nothing to thee but good is a bit strained, but Isaac created no friction.
   6. He made for his visitors a feast.

E. Observation
   1. One party can make a war but it takes two to sign a covenant.
   2. Forbearance is a beautiful thing and is very personal.
   3. We are not called to contend.
I. The training & instruction to capable young folk today is amazing.
   A. Introduction to Science.
   B. Training in Computers.
   C. A few years ago: New Math.
II. But can you add two wrongs and make a right?
    Let me tell you of one who tried it.
   A. We all know the story of the stolen birthright & blessing.
      1. Isaac - old, dim eyesight, death near.
      2. Esau - go get meat, his son.
      3. Rebekkah, Jacob, goats (not deer).
         a) Feel
         b) Deceives
         c) Curse on me, my son.
         d) Obey my voice.
      4. Dress Jacob in Esau's clothes, hairy arm (Note Jacob her son.)
      5. How so fast (v 20) - The Lord brought it to me, voice of Jacob, hands of Esau.
      6. Art thou my very son? I am.
      7. Kiss, Smell, Blessing.
      8. Immediately Esau + food.
      9. Isaac trembled, Esau's bitter cry.
     10. Jacob well named.
     11. Another secondary blessing.
     12. Esau hated, planned to kill.
     13. Rebekkah sent Jacob away a "few days" (never saw him again).
B. Jacob Dispatched
1. No daughters of Heth - "What good shall my life do me?"
2. We want children to marry well.
3. No daughter of Canaan - but cousin of Padanaran.
4. V-3 "El Shaddai".

III. Plan of Esau Gen. 28:6-9
A. When Esau Saw --
1. He is an opportunist.
2. He imitates a good example.
3. He is more interested in what his dad might want than in his mother or his God. After all, Dad had the blessing. (We cater to what helps us.)
4. Daring transgressors glory in their shame and wickedness.
5. He became too late wise.

Matt. 25:11
6. Example of after-wit; which for us.

B. No Daughters of Canaan.
1. Pleased not - lit. were evil in the eyes of Isaac.
2. Perhaps a dual effort - this would get Esau in with the Ishmael side of the house - not just Laban. These are close - others 500 miles way.
3. Marriage so vital.
   a) Let it be from one's kind.
   b) Your faith determines how you spend your money; who your friends will be; your recreation;
your career; how you will rear your children.
c) We want our children to be faithful in the church.

Service above self

Basic human nature dictates that when an individual is left to make moral decisions without reference to some standard above self, he or she invariably makes those choices on the basis of self interest . . . But the existence of society depends on people who will act on the basis of motives superior to their personal self interest. Cultures simply cannot function or survive without relying on the selflessness of men and women of character.

Through each perplexing path of life
Our wandering footsteps guide;
Give us each day our daily bread,
And raiment fit provide.

O spread Thy covering wings around,
Till all our wanderings cease,
And at our Father's loved abode
Our souls arrive in peace.

Such blessings from Thy gracious hand
Our humble prayers implore;
And Thou shalt be our chosen God,
And portion evermore.

"Hebrew Ideals in Genesis",
p. 238
I. I'm assigned two chapters to cover, In-Laws and Outlaws.

II. I really don't need but one chapter with a little of Chapter 30 quizzed in, skipped Chapter 31 though I have many notes on it.

III. I've added "By-Laws" as we will note some things both advantageous and disadvantageous to marriage and how—just a little extra thrown in.

IV. Let's go to Genesis 29.
   A. Jacob leaves home under duress as he stole the birthright.
      1. Parents played favorites.
      2. Heel snatcher lives up to his name.
      3. On his way, via spiritual development to becoming Israel!
      4. On his way to get a wife.
         a) Will love her.
         b) Work for her.
         c) Comes among his own people.
         d) All within the canopy of God.
      e) He's 77 years old; will be 84 when he marries. No kid!!
      f) His family will have some problems.
g) 600-mile journey, only go where God can bless.

Deut. 32:9-13

h) Go to the right place to get a wife (Gen. 28:2).

   1. He asks about the family and their welfare.
   2. Good to know where you and with whom you deal.
   3. Haran, chief town of Padanaram.
   4. A courtship will begin and each stays put long enough to know who you are.
   5. Laban, son of Bethuel, grandson of Nahor, thus knew something about the family.

C. Then came Rachel and the sheep.
   1. Jacob said water sheep--get rid of "little brother."
   2. Saw Rachel who worked (v-9).
   3. Saw sheep--"don't marry for money but it's okay to marry someone who has it."
   4. Rolled the stone--he's strong and excited. If she doesn't excite you bright

   b) Rachel, ewe, first woman named for animal world maybe, younger sister.
   c) Leah—tender eyed, hard to interpret, principle beauty, luster and softness of eyes.
   d) Rachel—"beautiful, well-favored"—excellent figure, exquisite, delicacy of features, appearance more sensational.
5. Jacob loved Rachel—she never said that to him—seven years, but few days.
   a) Coffman—Second wife, impatient, demanding. Through her homosexuality (Hosea 9:9; Judges 9:10), Ephraim led rebellion that divided Israel. Her body not at Machpelah, practiced idolatry, followed Abraham and introduced concubinage.
   b) Leah, first wife, stronger of the two, principal in patriarchal family, mother of six sons, 1/2 of patriarchs and a daughter, son Judah gave us Jesus, David, lion tribe, buried by Jacob.
   c) Rachel was dowry via crafty Laban.
   d) Relations honorable, v-21.
   e) Head to toe she's pretty, but beauty alone not enough.
   f) Love comes while we are busy with the ordinary things of life. First love story in Bible.
   g) All those years of work seemed short—goal in life makes work pass quickly.
E. Then the peculiar wedding.
1. Men of city came, feast, good we honor weddings.
2. Gave Jacob Leah and he slept with her. Also give Zilpah as handmaid.
3. False nuptials--don't know how they pulled it off.
4. Laban saw Jacob could make him rich. Will get double year's service.
5. Had to be with consent of both Leah and Rachel. Rachel pretty sure of herself that she'll eventually get him.
6. Jacob didn't know his wife was Leah until next morning--how dark the tent.
7. Payback time--Jacob fooled Isaac.
   Nu. 32:23 "Be sure your sins will find you out."
   Gal. 6:7. "Whatever a man sows, that he will also reap."
8. "What is this thou hast done unto me?" - v-25.
   "Wherefore then hast thou beguiled me?"

Jacob?
e) How did they make the departure?
f) Produced Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah.
9. Was it really a custom or did they manufacture it—as Brother Coleman "old Indian custom—men go first to food."
10. Father-in-law took advantage.
F. Rectified
1. Worked seven more years—she's worth something. Uncle Homer 25¢ wedding.
2. Got her in a week.
3. Kept word!
4. Patiently wait for what's right.
5. Power of heart over will.
G. In the end Jacob finds himself rich in children, property and a safe return home.
1. Think what God has to forgive to save any of us.
2. Psalm 37:5-7, 23-26, 34-40

Recently I read a thought-provoking article that pointed out the great value of youth. Think about these facts.

...Jesus was a young man during the whole of his ministry.
...50% of all Americans are under 25 years of age.
...In Los Angeles, there are more students (in all schools) than there were in the whole U.S. in 1990.
...Thomas Jefferson was only 33 when he wrote much of our Constitution.
...At 27, Patrick Henry was a national hero.
...Alexander Hamilton was only 19 as he set the finances of a nation.
...Those between 18 and 34 buy 38% of all the homes in America.
...They also buy 43% of the major appliances, and 47% of all furniture sold.
...Young people spend $11 billion a year, and influence the spending of $30 billion more.

But, as J.R. Chism said, "the main reason we are interested in young people is because of their souls."

Check End 2-18-73

Alab. Christian College 6-21-73
After an efficiency expert received his check for services rendered, he noticed it was one cent short. A stickler for detail, he called his client and insisted the difference be paid. When the check for a penny arrived, he took it to his bank. The teller first carefully studied the check, then leaned forward and whispered confidentially to the exerpt: "How would you like it — heads or tails?" — CLAUDE A. BURNETTE, JR., Little Field, Tex., True Magazine, 11-72.

"This was my first flight," he told her. "It was very nice, but now that it's over, could you tell me how to get the gum out of my ears?" — The Baptist Courier, 9-14-72.

During preliminary inspection at a Boy Scout camp, the director found an umbrella in the bedroll of a tiny Scouter. Since the umbrella was obviously not one of the items of equipment listed, the director asked the lad to explain. The tenderfoot neatly countered with his question: "Sir, did you ever have a mother?" — The Baptist Courier, 9-14-72.

Fresh Air

Once when Mark Twain was on tour, he woke in the middle of a stifling hot night at a hotel and couldn’t get back to sleep. In the dark, he tried to open the window, but it wouldn’t budge. Impatiently, he grabbed a shoe and broke the glass. Filling his lungs with cool fresh air he went back to sleep, refreshed.

In the morning he discovered that he had broken a mirror.

Kathy Logan, Kan.

"God help us, we live in a world in which hero is a sandwich, life is a magazine, gusto is a drink, power is a candy bar, joy is a detergent, my sin is a perfume, a star is an actress thrice divorced, the real thing is a soda pop."

5. At this time his identity is unknown to his brethren.

6. A weeping scene will unfold as we see resentment abolished, forgiveness reinstated, wrongs righted, and God's providence revealed.

7. We'll behold the unfolding of "I repent," "I forgive," "I love you" as action reveals it without the expressed words being spoken.

8. Let's move to the story.

III. Events in Joseph's house.

   A. Judah, and note the tribe, has made a great, self-sacrificing plea, and willingness to substitute himself.
B. By it Joseph is deeply touched and on the verge of becoming emotionally overcome.
   1. He orders all out of his presence except his brethren—still not knowing who he is.
   2. Egyptians are not to witness this scene even as we shield the bereaved at funerals for final viewing.
   3. Brethren must have been filled with great wonder as this powerful man had stated he'd imprison Benjamin and send them to Israel without him.
   4. They are so amazed that they said nothing.
C. Suddenly to the exclusive family the confession, "I am Joseph."
   1. Imagine their surprise!
   2. Hear the question: "Does my father yet live?"
   3. They could not answer because they were troubled at his presence.
   4. They could not imagine what he would do to them since they sold him into slavery, told their dad the lie that he was dead.
   5. Conscience troubles us.
   6. They know Joseph is Lord of the land and he can do whatever pleases him unto them.
7. Yet they currently detected no bitterness in his speech.
8. Not one harsh word was said.
9. Could their humiliation be worse?

Writer Arthur Gordon once said that salt water could cure anything, be it in the form of sweat, tears, or the ocean. I have thought about that solution and used it often. A good workout, a walk along the beach, or a good old-fashioned cry can send us back as better helpers.

Peter F. Drucker, management consultant and educator, has noted that "anyone over forty lives in a different world from that in which he came to manhood, lives as if he was emigrated, fully grown, to a new and strange country."

Frog Forecasting — Studies done in modern China have shown that one can predict the upcoming weather with 80 percent accuracy by monitoring the croaks of frogs. Chang Chi-tsai, a peasant, devised a formula which has been adopted by millions of Chinese farmers and peasants. The formula is: "If frogs croak on a fine day, it will rain in two days. If frogs croak after rain, there will be fine weather. It will continue to rain if frogs do not croak after successive overcast days."

IT'S TIME TO LEAVE HOME

Gen. 46:1-7

I. It is the nature of man and the procedure of families that there comes a time to leave home.
   A. Various are the reasons:
      1. It may be to pursue an education.
      2. It could be the call of the military.
      3. It could be calamity and necessity.
      4. But as life unfolds, we grow, we mature, we marry—we are "on our own."
   B. We may not at the very moment sense its finality, we love our rearing and expect to be back.
   C. In a sense we see "home" as where we grew up and long after we are somewhere else we still go "back home."

II. I want to tell you of a complete family—oddly enough—that left home.
   A. It is the story of Jacob.
   B. It's the result of a famine.
   C. It's the story of the providential protection of our powerful God who can put all the pieces in place.
   D. It's told in Genesis 46 and 47.
III. You will recall:
   A. Joseph, the lad with the coat of many colors and the egotistical dreams gaining the hatred of his brothers.
   B. He is sold as a slave to the Midianites and then to Egypt.
   C. He has unbelievable experiences of victory and defeat.
   D. He eventually becomes Lord of Egypt.
   E. You know the seven years of famine following seven years of plenty, Joseph is Governor.

IV. In great drama Joseph reveals his identity.
   Gen. 45:3 "I am Joseph; doth my father yet live? And his brethren could not answer him."
   Gen. 45:5 "God did send me before you to preserve life."
   Gen. 45:7 "Preserve you a posterity in the earth and to save your lives."
   Verse 8 "You did not send me, but God."
   Gen. 45:8 "He hath made me a father..."
   A. Time--make haste--for all Israel to leave home.
1. Lots of weeping--even Pharaoh heard.
2. Fame spread.
3. Bring them to Goshen--the best of the land.
4. Sent wagons for transport.
5. Rainment--Benjamin five changes and 300 pieces of silver.

B. Jacob knows none of this.
