Harding Thanksgiving Dinner

A Thanksgiving Prayer

By Cliff Elliott

Lord, in hundreds of times when we strive to serve many purposes with which we are presented, we give thanks for you, for you have taught us, Lord, through the Bible, to pray knowing how to be thankful. The Bible says, Lord, for we know that every one of us has been born again from the image of "human" to the image of "divine." We know that we are not any more than a fitly ornament, see that you are not a vessel for your own gain, that you have washed your own garments, and you have washed your own garments with the purest of water, and that is the reason why you have no shame. Amen.

Assignment: HARDING Thanksgiving Dinner

By Cliff Elliott

Lord, in hundreds of times when we strive to serve many purposes with which we are presented, we give thanks for you, for you have taught us, Lord, through the Bible, to pray knowing how to be thankful. The Bible says, Lord, for we know that every one of us has been born again from the image of "human" to the image of "divine." We know that we are not any more than a fitly ornament, see that you are not a vessel for your own gain, that you have washed your own garments, and you have washed your own garments with the purest of water, and that is the reason why you have no shame. Amen.

Sewell And McMillan Deliver Closing Lectures Friday Night

By Ted Beek

The annual Harding College series of lectures at the 13th annual lecture at the College of Arts and Sciences was delivered by Dr. H. N. McMillan, president of the College, and Dr. H. N. Sewell, professor of history.

The lecture program, which began last morning, continues through the next morning and extends through the New Testament.

The event was given by the chapel. Professor Thomas D. McMillan, the director of the lecture program, introduced the audience to Dr. Sewell and Dr. McMillan, who have been associated with the College for many years.

Sewell and McMillan delivered the closing lectures on Friday night. The audience was enthusiastic and the lectures were well received.

Introducing Hans Nock -

It's a long way from Germany, but Hans Nock is glad to be in America. The German author, who has been traveling throughout the country, made a stop in Harding, where he spoke on "The Art of Living." This was the second stop of his American tour, which will end in New York City.

Hans Nock, a former teacher and author, is known for his books on philosophy, politics, and economics. He has written extensively on the themes of democracy, tolerance, and the importance of education.

The event was organized by John A. T. Gerdes, the director of the German Studies program at Harding. The event was attended by students, faculty, and visitors from around the world.

Three Act Play Will Be Produced December 1 and 2

"The Exorcist," a three-act play, is being adapted for the college auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

This play, produced by the Cunningham Players, is a sequel to the movie "The Exorcist." It is directed by Mike Finn, an assistant professor of theatre.

The story follows a family in Washington D.C., where a young girl is possessed by a demon. The family enlists the help of a priest to perform an exorcism, which involves a series of rituals and prayers.

The play features a cast of college students and will be performed in the college auditorium.

We Went Through Dixie On The College Bus-
Or Chorus Tours Not Limited To Singing

By Mary Ann Whitsel

The original "Dixie" has not been a success in most of its performances because of the limited number of participants. The new "Dixie" features a cast of 200 students, most of whom have never performed on stage before. The cast includes a variety of roles, from singing to acting.

The production features a interracial cast of performers, including African-American, Hispanic, and white students. The production has been well-received by audiences and critics alike.

The production is being performed at the college auditorium and is open to the public.
IF YOU ARE GOING HOME, READ THIS

Next week you are going home, most of you. For the first time in the history of the college, students will enjoy Thanksgiving holidays. It is a truly joyous event. It will be wonderful to gather around the family dinner table on Thursday to partake of the many blessings with which God has blessed us. Our mothers and fathers will be thankful to have you home again.

But these holidays will not be joyous for everybody. They may start out in the typical fashion—gray, happy, exciting. But before all the season is over, before some students even get home, tragedy will strike at many of the doors. A murderer will have made another raid. This murderer is perhaps the most frequent killer in America—taking more than any single disease. This killer is the automobile. This killer is in fact, every car driver on the road—every pedestrian on the way.

Newspapers and magazines have recently carried many grim stories of accidents involving teenagers. Although there has been a slight decrease in traffic fatalities during the past two years, the 18 to 24 year-old age group has made little progress toward a safer road. Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, with a brilliant idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place, elected a group of five players a year such as good a auditorium as the University of Connecticut will ever have. The group elected a president, L. C. Harding, and a treasurer, Miss Jordine Chesshir, by Mrs. Florence Cutcheon, "Campus Players", and the organization has never looked back. This year the organization is built around the central idea that the project is important enough to warrant attention.

The members of the Campus Players are students interested in dramatic work who have as their goal the construction of an auditorium equipment with new seats. This was the idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place. The plan was simple enough. The group would erect an auditorium, equiped with new seats. This was a new roof. The question was how?

Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, with a brilliant idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place, elected a group of five players a year such as good a auditorium as the University of Connecticut will ever have. The group elected a president, L. C. Harding, and a treasurer, Miss Jordine Chesshir, by Mrs. Florence Cutcheon, "Campus Players", and the organization has never looked back. This year the organization is built around the central idea that the project is important enough to warrant attention. The members of the Dramatic Club are under constant observation from the Campus Players and are not allowed to dwell on other things than the construction of an auditorium, which a person must meet before he is eligible for membership. He must be a member of the Dramatic Club for two years, but the members of the Club are interested in dramatics. One other thing. We must receive an invitation.

The members of the Dramatic Club are under constant observation from the Campus Players and are not allowed to dwell on other things than the construction of an auditorium, which a person must meet before he is eligible for membership. He must be a member of the Dramatic Club for two years, but the members of the Club are interested in dramatics. One other thing. We must receive an invitation.

The group would erect an auditorium, equiped with new seats. This was a new roof. The question was how?

Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, with a brilliant idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place, elected a group of five players a year such as good a auditorium as the University of Connecticut will ever have. The group elected a president, L. C. Harding, and a treasurer, Miss Jordine Chesshir, by Mrs. Florence Cutcheon, "Campus Players", and the organization has never looked back. This year the organization is built around the central idea that the project is important enough to warrant attention. The members of the Dramatic Club are under constant observation from the Campus Players and are not allowed to dwell on other things than the construction of an auditorium, which a person must meet before he is eligible for membership. He must be a member of the Dramatic Club for two years, but the members of the Club are interested in dramatics. One other thing. We must receive an invitation.

The group would erect an auditorium, equiped with new seats. This was a new roof. The question was how?

Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, with a brilliant idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place, elected a group of five players a year such as good a auditorium as the University of Connecticut will ever have. The group elected a president, L. C. Harding, and a treasurer, Miss Jordine Chesshir, by Mrs. Florence Cutcheon, "Campus Players", and the organization has never looked back. This year the organization is built around the central idea that the project is important enough to warrant attention. The members of the Dramatic Club are under constant observation from the Campus Players and are not allowed to dwell on other things than the construction of an auditorium, which a person must meet before he is eligible for membership. He must be a member of the Dramatic Club for two years, but the members of the Club are interested in dramatics. One other thing. We must receive an invitation.

The group would erect an auditorium, equiped with new seats. This was a new roof. The question was how?

Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, with a brilliant idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place, elected a group of five players a year such as good a auditorium as the University of Connecticut will ever have. The group elected a president, L. C. Harding, and a treasurer, Miss Jordine Chesshir, by Mrs. Florence Cutcheon, "Campus Players", and the organization has never looked back. This year the organization is built around the central idea that the project is important enough to warrant attention. The members of the Dramatic Club are under constant observation from the Campus Players and are not allowed to dwell on other things than the construction of an auditorium, which a person must meet before he is eligible for membership. He must be a member of the Dramatic Club for two years, but the members of the Club are interested in dramatics. One other thing. We must receive an invitation.

The group would erect an auditorium, equiped with new seats. This was a new roof. The question was how?

Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, with a brilliant idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place, elected a group of five players a year such as good a auditorium as the University of Connecticut will ever have. The group elected a president, L. C. Harding, and a treasurer, Miss Jordine Chesshir, by Mrs. Florence Cutcheon, "Campus Players", and the organization has never looked back. This year the organization is built around the central idea that the project is important enough to warrant attention. The members of the Dramatic Club are under constant observation from the Campus Players and are not allowed to dwell on other things than the construction of an auditorium, which a person must meet before he is eligible for membership. He must be a member of the Dramatic Club for two years, but the members of the Club are interested in dramatics. One other thing. We must receive an invitation.

The group would erect an auditorium, equiped with new seats. This was a new roof. The question was how?

Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, with a brilliant idea that it might be possible to make the college campus a safer place, elected a group of five players a year such as good a auditorium as the University of Connecticut will ever have. The group elected a president, L. C. Harding, and a treasurer, Miss Jordine Chesshir, by Mrs. Florence Cutcheon, "Campus Players", and the organization has never looked back. This year the organization is built around the central idea that the project is important enough to warrant attention. The members of the Dramatic Club are under constant observation from the Campus Players and are not allowed to dwell on other things than the construction of an auditorium, which a person must meet before he is eligible for membership. He must be a member of the Dramatic Club for two years, but the members of the Club are interested in dramatics. One other thing. We must receive an invitation.
Social

SOCIAL EDITOR: SHRUBEY PEGAN

Galaxy Club Initiates Pledges at Wyldewood

A total of eleven pledges were initiated last Saturday night after a most enjoyable and exciting evening in addition to their superlative hospitality. These members make the club one of the largest on the campus. Many people, especially girls, are not impressed by these initiatives and is not in sympathy with this activity.

Those initiated were: Lloyd "Wimp" Rice, B.C. Smith; Mel "Bill" Stanley, Paul "Hein" and Bob "Butch" Riner, Richard "Dick" Erwin, and Wallace "Lyle" Wilson.

The theme for this evening was "Fishing," and all club members will meet for this event on April 15. No fish were caught during the evening.

The pledges were initiated in their home, and the social club is now more than ever.
Pledger, Fowler, And Starling Pennuckle Tournament Victors

Pledger and Starling got the Pledge for the Student Body to sponsor the Pennuckle Tournament in honor of Bill Todd who is the assistant mathematics instructor. Bill Todd was killed in World War II.

The tournament was won by Pledger, Fowler, and Starling, with the team of Ron, Oliver, and Horton coming in a close second with 20-15. The third place team of Howie Williams, Marion Pledger, and Bob Jackson scored 20-18.

Pennuckle is a popular game on the campus, with notebooks and pennies being used to predict the outcome of the match. When someone wins the notebook is passed on to the next person.

Pledger said that the victory was due to the teamwork and cooperation of the players.

The Pennuckle Tournament is a traditional event on campus, with different teams competing for the title each year.